FIRE CHIEF IS FOR PARALLEL PARKING PLAN

Diagonal Method Serious Handicap to Fire Fighters, McFarland Says

CITES OTHER REASONS

Time Limit on Uptown Parking Advocated as Aid in Solving Problem

Editor's Note—There is probably no other citizen or public official whose opinion on the automobile parking question is of greater importance than the chief of the fire department. For that reason, unusual interest is attached to the views expressed by Fire Chief McFarland in the interview reported below. This is one of a series of interviews on parking being published by The Star preliminary to action by city council.

BY W. D. BUCHANAN
Marion Star Staff Writer

"A diagonally parked automobile is the worst fire hazard the city has to contend with." This is the opinion of Fire Chief Thomas J. McFarland and clearly defines his attitude on the parking problem.

The chief favors parallel parking for two reasons. First, as a means of aiding firemen in fighting fires, and second, as a means of speeding up traffic. The chief is vitally interested in both.

In the first place the chief would like to know, but that he expects the layman to answer the question: "How are we to throw a ladder to a third-story window if we have to put our trucks in the middle of the street?"

This is an impossibility, Chief McFarland claims, as fire ladders are made to work nearly straight up and not at an angle. A ladder straight in the air or nearly so, will hold as many men as can get on, but a ladder on an angle will snap if the load is too great.

Another Disadvantage

This, however, isn't the only fire hazard diagonally parked cars invite, according to the chief. In the majority of cases it is impossible, the chief points out, to take a line of hose between diagonally parked cars.

Getting back to the question of raising ladders the chief points out that the street is the only place from which a ladder can be raised. It is futile, he claims, to try to raise a ladder through the maze of guy wires holding signs over practically every door in the business district.

With cars parked parallel it is possible to place fire trucks from six to eight feet closer to the sidewalk. And it is much easier to run a line of hose between two cars parked in this fashion, the chief claims. Then too, there is more room on the streets for fire trucks on runs when cars are parked parallel.

McFarland states that the department is now forced to take longer routes to some sections of the city because diagonal parking blocks certain

"Great Noun and Verb Rodeo" With 30 Entrants Gets Underway in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Mounted on miniature platforms, their jaws wiggling and wagging industriously and apparently tirelessly, 30 men and women were demonstrating the elasticity of their tonsils today in a marathon contest advertised as "the world's championship gab-fest."

Strange noises from the throats of people who have nothing to say at great length smote the eardrums of spectators who paid their way into the seventy-first regiment armory this morning. The contestants were all "gabbing" at once. It was evident why an armory, and not a hall, was hired for the event.

John Rose Gildea, a Greenwich village poet, was reciting verses from the pen of the immortal Tennyson; Allan D. (Captain) Risley was muttering imprecations at the horizon; Miss May Shaw was reading the Bible from cover to cover; King Philip Moorehead was intriguing his audience with "pig Latin" and others were saying their say in their own way—shouting, singing, talking, screaming, gargling, reciting, hooting and yodling.

The contest is being promoted by Milton Crandall, who staged the dance marathon at Madison Square Garden last summer. The "great noun and verb rodeo" started at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and will continue until next Saturday midnight when the winner will be awarded a prize of $1,000 and be crowned the

ONLY THIRD OF AUTO LICENSES ISSUED HERE

Last-Minute Rush Under Way as Year Nears Close

Although the Marion Auto club has been issuing 1929 license plates for nearly one month, only one-third of the car owners in the county had obtained their licenses today. This year's licenses are good for only five more days.

A number of extra clerks on duty at club headquarters were able to take care of requests for plates today with little difficulty. Lines of waiters are expected to form in the street about Thursday.

The annual rush for licenses is also being felt in the office of the clerk of courts, where automobile bills of sale are recorded. Each year, according to Clerk Harley Koons, the office is kept busy for a week or more issuing duplicate bills of sale to those who have lost their originals.

The automobile club reported today that licenses had been issued for 3,300 passenger cars, 20 pleasure-commercial cars, 200 trucks, four motorcycles, two side cars, and 12 trailers.

30-HOUR SERVICE TO HONOLULU PLANNED

Construction Will Be Started on 100-Passenger Air Craft

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26—Thirty-hour air service between the United States and Honolulu. That is the plan made public toady by Herbert N. Royster, former army aviator and head of a new transportation concern.

Simultaneously with the service announcement it was learned that construction would be started within 60 days on a 100-passenger lighter-than-air craft embodying features of the dirigible and airplane.

The hybrid ship will be used in the new transpacific line, it was said.

Instead of depending upon mooring masts, the ship will be equipped with landing gear using wheels.

SOUTH MAIN ST. RESTAURANT IS SWEPT BY FIRE

American-Italian Business Place Sustains $4,000 Loss

Fire of undetermined origin at 3:40 o'clock Tuesday morning caused damage estimated at $4,000 to the American-Italian restaurant, 120 S. Main st., owned by Jimmy Ruzzo.

The blaze, which was discovered by a passing policeman, started in a store-room on the second floor, and had gained headway before the alarm was sounded. Considerable difficulty was experienced by the firemen in combating the flames due to the dense smoke which filled the second story rooms.

About 15 square feet of the second story floor caved in before the fire was brought under control. Due to the fact that the restaurant had been closed for Christmas the fire was not discovered until the middle room of the second floor was a mass of blaze.

The Longshore grocery and Kramer's cafe, adjoining the restaurant, were slightly damaged by smoke and water. Departments No. 1 and No. 2 answered the alarm.

Damage of $10 to an automobile owned by William McPeck, 710 Bennett st., was caused at 8:15 Tuesday night when gasoline splashed over the engine and ignited. The fire was extinguished by chemicals from No. 1 department.

SHOWS CITY OWNS NO UTILITY PLANTS

Marion Listed as One of 12 in Ohio Without Municipal Service

Out of Ohio's 93 municipalities that rank as cities, only 12, of which number Marion is one, have no municipally owned public utilities, such as gas, water, street railway and electric plants, but buy these services from private corporations. This fact is revealed in the report of D. O. Hecter, statistician for the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public offices.

Along with Marion are Bowling Green, Chillicothe, Circleville, Delaware, Dennison, Massillon, Struthers, Tiffin, Uhrichsville, Washington C. H. and Wilmington. The other 81 cities have one or more municipally owned utilities. Marion is the largest city in this group.

Fifty-eight of these 81 cities that operate one or more of these utilities report a profit on these services while 23 report a deficit.

During the present year Marion will pay to a private owned corporation close to $31,000 for electricity and will pay another corporation $24,000 for water and hydrant service, a total of $55,000 for these two utilities.

All but 26 municipal owned water plants in the state are operated at a profit and five municipal electric plants are operated at a deficit. At Bellefontaine the water plant yields a revenue of close to $25,000 to the city each year.

APPEALS FOR AID

Prince of Wales Broadcasts Plea for Idle Coal Miners

LONDON, Dec. 26—Additional relief funds running into thousands of dollars for the poverty-stricken families of idle coal miners are expected to result from the Prince of Wales' dramatic appeal on the radio last night.

The prince was on his way to Buckingham palace to take Christmas dinner with his mother, Queen Mary, and his brothers and sister, when he stopped his journey to broadcast his request. He painted a vivid picture of the sufferings in the families of miners where, it is estimated, nearly 1,000,000 are destitute. He told of the misery among the women and children who lack not only food but clothing to keep warm in the winter months.

CLAIM HOOVER HOPES TO AVOID EXTRA SESSION

President-Elect's Change in Plans Interpreted by Capital Leaders

FARM, TARIFF PROBLEMS

Westerners Want Relief Measure While Easterners Seek Duty Revision

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—Herbert Hoover's decision to return to Washington for a week or 10 days before proceeding on to Florida was ascribed here today as due to his desire to avoid if possible, an extra session of the new congress after March 4. He is coming to the capital for conferences with congressional leaders.

It is no secret that the president-elect is averse to starting his administration off with an extra session. How he is going to avoid it, however, is another matter.

Republican members from the agricultural west and those from the industrial northeast have joined hands in the agitation for this special session. The westerners want farm relief legislation; the easterners want tariff revision—upward.

Leaders Split

Mr. Hoover is committed to calling a special session only if the present short session does not enact farm relief legislation. If the dying seventieth congress puts through a farm bill it relieves the president-elect of his pledge to bring the new seventy-first congress to Washington immediately after March 4. Even this, though, won't take care of the industrial interests that want tariff revision.

Congressional leaders themselves are split upon the advisability of the special session. Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house, is strongly opposed to it. On the other hand, John Q. Tilson, Republican leader of the house, is for it. Even if congress passes farm relief legislation before March 4 he is of the opinion that a special session will be required to act on the tariff because it is manifestly impossible to undertake tariff revision in the eight weeks of life left to the present congress. Senate opinion appears equally divided.

The ways and means committee opens hearings on tariff revision on Jan. 7, which is about the day that

COOLIDGES IN SOUTH FOR BRIEF VACATION

President To Visit in Territory Famous as Blackbeard's Base

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Dec. 26—President Coolidge came south today for a holiday vacation in the territory that Blackbeard, the famous pirate, occupied as a base more than a century ago.

The special train bearing Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge pulled into Brunswick, at 9 o'clock this morning. A large crowd, considering the size of the town, was on hand to greet them.

The mayor and members of the town board were at the station to meet the president. After a number of photographs, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge left for Sapelo Island, where they will be guests of Howard E. Coffin, the automobile magnate, until after the new year.

Special automobile busses carried Mr. Coolidge to St. Simons' Island, where the party took a speed boat to Sapelo Island. Just off the coast from where President and Mrs. Coolidge will stay is Blackbeard's island, where the pirate chieftain once hid his gold.

The Christmas white house is located on an island, 16 miles long and eight miles wide. A magnificent marble home of Spanish architectural design caps the island. Wild game of all varieties abound and promise the president an over full week of sport.

Thirty-seven Patients Carried to Safety As Hospital Burns

HULL, Quebec, Dec. 26—An investigation was begun today to determine the origin of the fire that swept the central building of the Sacred Heart hospital and claimed the life of Sister Cecile, a 22-year-old nun. The blaze, according to fire men, started in a laundry chute. Sister Cecile was fatally burned when she attempted to quench the flames with an extinguisher.

Thirty-seven patients, many of them mothers with children, were carried down fire escapes and fiaming stairways to safety. Mrs. Joseph Lorrain of Hull carried her two-day old baby and a four-year-old boy down three flights.

Late Christmas Mailing and Flu Blamed for Sunday Delivery Here

Local Postal Force Overcomes Obstacles To Clean Up Yuletide Rush, Postmaster Crow States, Explaining Why Sunday Rule Was Ignored

After overcoming serious obstacles and handling with remarkable efficiency what was probably the greatest Christmas mail rush in Marion's history, the local postoffice force finds itself required to answer criticism from postal department heads in Washington for having delivered mail on Sunday.

Marion, however, is not the only city which overstepped the department rule against Sunday deliveries. A dispatch from Washington today states that the ruling also was used in numerous cities throughout the country in order to have all Christmas letters and packages at their destination before the dawn of Christmas day.

The Sunday delivery was absolutely necessary here to clean up the huge accumulation of holiday mail and to place it in the homes before Christmas, Postmaster Crow said today.

Failure of the public to mail early in accordance with repeated requests from the postal department is given as the chief cause of the mass of letters and packages which required the Sunday delivery, postoffice authorities here and elsewhere state.

In addition, the situation here was made more difficult and complicated by inroads made into the local office and carrier force by illness, chiefly influenza.

Five of the local force were off duty Monday and seven Saturday because of illness. Today there were nine on the absent list.

"We were well organized for the Christmas rush and would have handled it without making the Sunday delivery if the force had not been reduced by illness," Postmaster Crow stated today.

"We did the only thing that was possible in order to take care of the business properly," the postmaster said. "I decided that it was our first duty to serve the public and see that the mail reached its destination before Christmas. Mail intended for that day does not carry much sentiment with it when delivered after Christmas day."

As evidence that Christmas mailing was done later than usual this year, Postmaster Crow says that receipts at the local office for the seven days preceding Christmas this year amounted to $7,434.27, while for the same seven days last year the total was $7,170.42, an increase of 7.86 per cent. This year receipts for the

LOCAL MAN HELD AFTER SHOOTING

Vernon Walker Accused of Wounding Man in Home at Delaware

Vernon Walker, colored, of 976 North State st., is being held in the Delaware county jail pending investigation of a shooting scrape Monday night at Delaware, in which Melvin Scott, colored of Delaware, was shot twice, through the left arm and left hip.

Walker will probably be charged with shooting with intent to kill, according to Sheriff Conner Lambert, of Delaware county. Scott's condition is not considered serious.

Scott has been serving a term in the Delaware jail and had been granted leave to assist another man to his home Monday night. After fulfilling his mission Scott decided to call on his girl friend before returning to jail.

While paying the visit Walker put in his appearance and an argument followed. Walker fired three shots through a door at Scott and then fired three more through a window, two of the bullets taking effect, police report.

Walker gave himself up to Chief J. W. Thompson about 11 o'clock Monday night. Sheriff Lambert was immediately notified and Walker was turned over to the Delaware authorities.

FORMER LOCAL MAN ONE OF SIX DEAD IN FIRE

Wilbur W. Wilson Perishes as Flames Sweep Hotel in Akron

TRAPPED IN ROOMS

Official Investigation Follows Disastrous Christmas Day Blaze

Wilbur W. Wilson, 20, former Marion resident, was one of six persons who lost their lives in a fire which swept the Hotel Park at Akron early yesterday morning.

Wilson's body will probably be brought here for burial, it was stated by relatives today.

Wilson, employed in Akron as a rubber worker, came to Marion after spending several years in the Odd Fellows home at Springfield. He left here about two years ago for Akron.

Two brothers, LeVerne, of this city, and Taylor, whose address is unknown, survive him, in addition to one sister, Gladys, who is employed in the Oakland Grill on Davids st. Their father, Elmer Wilson, lives at Plain City, Ohio. The mother passed away when Wilbur Wilson was five years old.

Firemen and police today were investigating the hotel fire.

Trapped in Rooms

Five men and one woman, trapped in bedrooms while they slept, perished in the burning building. They were, in addition to the former Marion man, Charles King, 28, a cook, Arthur Alexander, 67, retired, Mrs. Alberta Miller Alexander, 55, his wife, Clark Burrell, 41, a cook, and Lucian G. Curtis, 29, pool room employe, formerly of Indianapolis.

There were about 80 persons in the hotel at the time of the tragedy. Seven persons were injured, but all had been dismissed from the hospital last night.

Spontaneous combustion in a rubbish heap in the basement or at the rear of the hotel is believed to have caused the fire. Heavy billows of smoke came up a clothes chute, making escape impossible by the front stairs. The rear exit was cut off by flames and there were no outside fire escapes.

Blaze Spreads Rapidly

By the time firemen arrived the hotel, a three-story frame structure of about 75 rooms, was wrapped in flames. People appeared at every window, calling for help.

"All our first efforts necessarily had to be directed to the saving of lives and for a time the flames were left unchecked," Fire Chief Merts said.

"Despite our efforts more lives were lost than in any other fire in the city's history."

All of the six who were killed, except Curtis, were apparently awakened, made efforts to escape, before they were overcome by smoke. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander had thrown a mattress to the ground from a window and had knotted a sheet before they were suffocated.

Firemen worked their way through the hotel, rescuing the frightened, nearly suffocated, men and women. Of the seven injured, Paul Locklair, 40, was most seriously hurt, suffering severe burns.

SECOND FLU DEATH OCCURS IN COUNTY

Maida June Myers, Age 8, Dies at Home Here; Prospect Man First Victim

Marion county's second death from the flue epidemic occurred yesterday morning when Maida June Myers, 8, died at her home, 273 East Fairground st. Her death came after four days' illness.

The first victim of the flu in the county was Caleb Isler, aged Prospect resident. He passed away Saturday at the home of his son, Charles Isler, near Prospect.

Maida June was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Myers, both of whom survive her. She was born June 5, 1920, at Harpster Twp. Two brothers, Robert Edward, 6, and Eugene, 2, also survive her.

Funeral services will be held at the home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. L. D. Hill in charge. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery.

CRIMINALS FLEE

Try To Escape Dragnet of Police Commissioner Whalen

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—With scores of underworld denizens reported fleeing to other cities to escape the Police Commissioner Whalen drag-net, New York City was believed today to be in the process of becoming a haven of desperate criminals.

More than 200 of the 1,200 suspects rounded up within the first few days were to be arraigned today before magistrates in night sessions of police courts. It is expected that the others will be arraigned in batches of hundreds each day. Those who are found guilty will be sentenced to jail or deported if they are aliens.

That is quite a compliment for Ford and his British-European company, although it upsets his plan for "British ownership of Ford's British company."

SAY RETAIL TRADE LARGEST ON RECORD

Uncle Sam Went on Great Buying Spree, Records Disclose

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—Uncle Sam went on the greatest buying spree of all time in the 1928 Christmas shopping season, Dr. Julius Klein, director of foreign and domestic commerce, declared today.

Klein is among the possibilities mentioned for the commercial portfolio in President-elect Hoover's cabinet. He probably has the most extensive grasp on general business conditions of any man in Washington.

While Klein did not care to estimate the volume of business, explaining that such figures cannot be entirely accurate until the government is authorized to make a census of distribution, other experts fixed retail trade at from $40,000,000,000 to $60,000,000,000 for the year.

"With the exception of spots in New England, touched by the textile strikes, and in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, because of the bituminous coal situation, retail trade during the holidays and for the year, was the largest on record," Dr. Klein said.

Chain stores probably made the greatest increase over the 1927 business volume, although the department stores in most cities and the mail order houses showed large boosts. Exact figures as to percentage increases of wholesale and retail trade will not be available until some time in January, when the monthly statements are issued by the federal reserve board, based upon reports from the 12 reserve banks.

The heavy Christmas buying is even more remarkable when it is considered that the United States is doing its holiday shopping early. Many reports were received that shoppers, particularly women, took advantage of the post-Christmas sales last January and in the mid-summer sales to lay in a supply of Christmas presents at unusually low prices.

OUT OF SEASON

Three Robins Take Up Winter Quarters Here as Warmth Continues

WEATHER conditions thus far indicate that Marion is likely to have a mild winter. Later developments may change the situation but right now all signs point to an unusually balmy season.

That seems to be the viewpoint of three robins which have established headquarters in the yard at the rear of the Frank Scheffner home, 243 South State st., apparently with intentions of making a prolonged stay.

Whether the trio have delayed their trip southward or have returned prematurely as harbingers of the far-away spring months is a matter of conjecture. At any rate, they seem perfectly satisfied with weather conditions here and enjoyed a merry Christmas, members of the Schaffner family report.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO BERLIN'S INFANT SON

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Mrs. Ellin Mackay Berlin was reported prostrated today at her home, over the death of her 24-day-old son, Irving Berlin, Jr.

The child, who bore the name of his song-writing father, died of a heart attack despite extensive medical attention. The infant was stricken with convulsions, dying quickly.

Birth of the child was said to have effected a reconciliation between the popular composer's wife and her millionaire father, Clarence Mackay.

FOUR ROB PRIESTS OF CHRISTMAS MONEY

Bandits Threaten Pastor and Assistant with Death; Pose as Contributors

CHICAGO, Dec. 26—Four bandits who invaded the rectory of St. Casimir's Catholic church, threatened two priests with death and escaped with $4,000 in Christmas collections, were being sought by police today.

The holdup was staged last night after the robbers had gained entrance to the rectory by posing as parishioners who wished to make contributions.

The Rev. L. S. Rakowski, assistant pastor, admitted the men when they rang the doorbell. The leader took a sawed-off shotgun from under his coat. Others produced revolvers.

They commanded the priest to open the safe. Just then the aged pastor, the Rev. Albert Furman, walked into the room. He tried to dissuade the bandits. They shoved him into a corner, threatening both priests with death if the safe wasn't opened at once.

Father Rakowski opened the safe. The bandits filled their overcoat pockets with currency and silver, taken up at the Christmas masses, and fled out, escaping in an automobile.

ROME MAN KILLED

Life Taken As He Enters Drive to Celebrate Christmas

ROME, O., Dec. 26—Death has overturned the cup of Christmas cheer at the William R. Farmer home here and preparations are being made today to bury the father. Farmer, who was 58, was killed on the very portals of his home Christmas afternoon by an L. C. & L. traction car.

Farmer, a state employe, was returning from work yesterday afternoon when the brakes on his car are believed to have failed. His auto turned from the road into the private drive crossing the interurban tracks. His widow, Mrs. Ella Farmer, and eight children were in the home waiting for him and the beginning of their Christmas feast.

It may take hardships to make a real man; but the man doesn't like it.

COLD RELIEVED INSTANTLY WAY DOCTORS NOW ADVISE

Tempting Taste! Instant Relief —Then Cold Just Disappears When Treated This Way

Neglecting autumn colds is sure to cause needless misery and may risk pneumonia. So doctors are now recommending a method that is giving quick, sure relief—not only in extreme hospital cases but in vast numbers of homes in Marion and vicinity.

Miss Edith Dennis, for example, neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so had she called her doctor who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, ternin hydrate, etc.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth. Relief began instantly and in an hour or so the medication was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion in her nose passages and chest. When she awoke next morning there was practically no sign of the cold—and in another day or so congestion had disappeared entirely.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

This hospital certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps get rid of congestion, reduce fever and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. At all druggists—50c and, twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

REASONS OUTLINED FOR SUNDAY MAIL

Tardy Public and Flu Blamed for Need of Extra Delivery Here

last three days preceding Christmas amounted to $2,914.22, while last year for the same three days the amount was $2,109.35, the increase figuring 38.1 per cent.

Public at Fault

While this may have been partially due to an increase in the amount of mailing, it is believed to have been caused mainly by the public putting off its mailing until late.

All members of the local force were glad to render the extra day's service to the public and no one is offering any apologies for working on Sunday, the postmaster said. Christmas morning found all mail delivered here. Had it not been for the Sunday service, Christmas letters and packages would be going to the homes all of this week, the postmaster said.

William R. Spilman, superintendent of the division of postoffice service, declared in Washington today the avalanche of greeting cards and parcels was not directed upon the postoffices until Saturday, news dispatches state. He said it was probable that millions of pieces of mail failed to reach their destinations Christmas eve.

His statement indicated the Christmas mail generally throughout the country will not be cleared before next Saturday or possibly Monday. This excludes the individual New Year's greeting that will be mailed during the week.

The Lord's Day Alliance has complained against the action of the postmasters of Newark, Orange and East Orange in New Jersey, who authorized mail deliveries last Sunday. The organization declared such action was in "violation of the spirit of Christmas and Sunday."

Spilman's Statement

Spilman said the New Jersey postmasters and others who may have done likewise, had acted without authority and described their action as "most extraordinary." He held the opinion that they sanctioned the Sunday work so a greater number of persons would receive their holiday cards and gifts before Christmas eve.

Postmaster General Harry S. New will determine what action will be taken against the offending mail chiefs, the news report says. It was believed their punishment will be in the form of a severe reprimand.

Spillman said: "No delivery on Sunday was ordered by the department but it is apparent the postmasters who ordered such service without authority wanted to serve the public by delivering most of the mail before Christmas eve, and to give the Christmas holiday to their employes.

"The department announced some time ago that there would be no mail delivery on Christmas day. This order was issued so the majority of employes could have the one-day holiday."

He said early mailing was not advanced this season as in former years. The public virtually ignored the "mail early" slogan and did not release the greater part of its holiday mail until Saturday.

"The postmasters evidently saw this coming," he continued, for many telegraphed requests for permission to conduct Sunday deliveries. Each was told the department's policy could not be violated."

Dr. Harry L. Bowlby, of Orange, general secretary of the religious body, made the protest against the Sabbath mail delivery in the New Jersey cities.

MARION MAN HURT IN BUS ACCIDENT

Greyhound Car Ditched To Avoid Striking Freight Train

A traveling experience that took the cheer out of Christmas for a number of people was related this morning by Kenneth B. Kerr, member of the Star advertising staff.

Kerr was enroute to Chicago to spend Christmas with his parents when the Greyhound bus in which he was riding was ditched near Hamler, Ind., to avoid hitting a freight train. Eight of the 27 passengers in the bus were taken to LaPorte, Ind., hospital. Kerr bears a bruise on the forehead as a reminder of the near tragedy.

A moment before the bus was ditched a fatal accident occurred when a freight train struck an automobile traveling toward the Greyhound bus. One person, an occupant of the car, was killed.

Before occupants of the bus could be extricated from the bus a taxicab from Hammond, Ind., crashed into the freight train. The collision sent three persons to the hospital.

PLAN OPERATION TO REMOVE LITTLE TOY

Baby Appears Strong Enough; Receives Many Christmas Gifts

CINCINNATI, Dec. 26—Little 18-month-old Frank Brooks, who is lying critically ill at Millhoefer hospital here with a toy motorcycle lodged in his throat, will undergo another operation today for the removal of the obstruction, doctors stated. His condition appeared to be better this morning than for several days and if an examination at noon shows the baby to be strong enough the operation will be made.

Frank was brought to Cincinnati 10 days ago by his parents from their home in Asco, W. Va. The toy was hidden in a package of candied popcorn. It is approximately one and a half inches long.

Hundreds of gifts were delivered to him Christmas from unknown persons who learned of the plight through newspaper accounts. Frank was unable to enjoy them very much, however. There was no special Christmas dinner for the little fellow either. He had to be content with broth and medical nourishment, because only the smallest portions of solid food can pass the obstruction.

Surgeons at Asco, Bluefield, W. Va., and Cincinnati have made several futile attempts to remove the toy from Frank's throat but because of his weakened condition no further attempts have been made.

TWO INJURED AS CAR IS WRECKED

James Lingo, Jr., and John Gillis Cut by Glass When Sedan Is Ditched

A Hudson sedan belonging to James Lingo, Walnut st., was demolished yesterday afternoon when it skidded off the road, hitting a telephone pole. The two occupants of the car, James Lingo Jr., son of the owner, and John Gillis, were only slightly hurt.

The sedan, driven by young Lingo, was returning to Marion on Kenton av., when it skidded on the gravel at the side of the road and went into the ditch. The car hit a telephone pole, which was broken, and fell on the car, smashing the top of it.

Both occupants were cut by flying glass but were able to return to their work at the Marion Steam Shovel plant today.

Gillis is a member of the Harding High Alumni basketball team, which is scheduled to play the high school team Thursday night.

Services will take place at the home at 1:30 o'clock and at Trinity Baptist church at 2 o'clock, followed by interment in Marion cemetery. The Rev. L. A. Wood will officiate.

Mrs. Young's death was caused by pneumonia, which developed in an illness which lasted 17 weeks.

Mrs. Young is survived by her husband, Charles Young, three children, Milton, Jessie and Dorothy, two sisters, and three brothers.

"MYSTERY MAN" IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Amnesia Victim at Jail Is Checker Expert, but Doesn't Know Name

Although Sheriff James A. Deal's mysterious Christmas guest is able to beat the majority of the prisoners in the county jail at a game of checkers, he is still unable to throw any light on his identity or past history.

Since last Saturday when the stranger walked into the sheriff's office to ask for aid in locating his relatives, Sheriff Deal has waged an unsuccessful search for friends of the 45-year-old man who is supposed to be a victim of amnesia.

A description of the man broadcast Saturday night from station WLW at the request of the sheriff has brought four responses from relatives of missing men. One clue run down Monday proved fruitless.

Inquiries were received yesterday from W. R. Bonbalomer of Sunbury, Pa., and Mrs. W. H. Yarnall, of Exeter, Mo.

Today the stranger was to be photographed as a means of aiding identification.

WILL PLACE CHARGE AGAINST HELDMAN

Canton Coroner Will File First Degree Murder Affidavit Today

CANTON, Dec. 26 — An affidavit, formally charging Wilbur O. Heldman with first degree murder in the death of his wife, Margaret, 24, will be filed by Coroner T. C. McQuate some time today, according to Prosecutor Henry C. Harter, Jr.

Heldman says his wife killed herself as he was bringing her to the sheriff's office here after she had confessed to him that she murdered Vernard Fearn. Fearn was shot at the door of his home in Waco the night of Dec. 6, while Mrs. Heldman was killed with the same pistol just a week later.

The affidavit to be sworn to by Coroner McQuate today is the direct result of the questioning of Heldman by Orn Slater, Cincinnati detective, at the scene of Mrs. Heldman's death. The charge will hold the young furnace salesman to the Stark county grand jury which will convene here Jan. 7.

Harter and McQuate refused to reveal any of the details which led them to decide to file the murder charge. Heldman, who is now in the county jail as a coroner's witness, is said to have asserted he would welcome any charge and a chance to prove his innocence.

SELL MEDALS

Proceeds Used to Pay Claims on Amundsen's Estate

OLSO, Norway — The medals awarded to the late Captain Raold Amundsen for his explorational work in the Polar regions, have been sold for $4,000 to satisfy claims against his estate.

Becoming bankrupt in 1924 because of the tremendous expenses occurred in his scientific activities, Captain Amundsen's last words, before going to his death in an attempt to rescue Commander Umberto Nobile, were addressed to his lawyer. He said:

"Make me a free man."

The last years of Amundsen's life were beset with serious financial worries. After the war, his private fortune was estimated at 275,000 pounds, but this and a state subvention of $140,000 were insufficient to cover the expenses of his Polar expeditions.

In 1924 friends purchased his home at Svartskor, Norway, and afterwards presented it to him. Captain Amundsen called these episodes the most humiliating and tragic of his life.

Philadelphians gave away $99,074,000; Boston, $83,445,000; Pittsburgh, $74,010,000; Detroit, $71,524,000; San Francisco, $64,567,000; Cleveland, $62,944,000; Los Angeles, $62,557,000; St. Louis, $52,305,000; and Milwaukee, $51,002,000.

SAY HOOVER HOPES TO AVOID SESSION

President-Elect's Change in Plans Interpreted by Capital Leaders

Mr. Hoover will land in Washington Mr. Hoover, it is said, wants to be in a position to make his votes and influence felt in tariff proposals.

No Demand, He Says

Longworth believes it is possible to pass farm relief legislation before March 4, and he does not agree that tariff revision is particularly desirable at this time.

"I don't think there should be any general revision," he said. "I don't think there is any demand for it. Some of the schedules are high enough, anyway.

"Farm relief legislation can be passed at this session now that the farm leaders have abandoned the equalization fee. All that is needed is an agreement among the leaders."

It is to straighten out this conflict of views among Republican leaders that Washington understands Mr. Hoover is returning here.

Will Be Busy Days

The 10 days that Mr. Hoover will spend in the capital will be busy ones, according to the plans that have been made for him.

In addition to conferences with congressional leaders, Mr. Hoover also plans some meetings here with prospective cabinet material. Several men, whose names have not been divulged, have been invited to meet the president-elect during his stay here.

That Mr. Hoover also is taking considerable interest in the reparations situation was indicated today, S. Parker Gilbert, the agent-general of the Dawes plan, is sailing for the United States about the first of the year, and will meet Mr. Hoover in Washington.

FIRE CHIEF FAVORS PARALLEL PARKING

Diagonal Method Serious Handicap to Fire Fighters, McFarland Says

streets which would be the nearest outlet to those sections.

As Chief McFarland sees the situation the purpose of parking isn't to allow a few more automobiles to line the streets but to offer the greatest convenience to the greatest number of motorists. He favors a time limit for parking which will prohibit drivers from leaving their cars along the curb all day long. A time limit, he points out, will keep cars moving, thereby allowing others to stop at the curb for a short time to transact business. As it is, he states, a great number of automobiles are driven to the curb in the morning and left there until night. Diagonal parking, as he sees it, will do nothing more than accommodate a few more of such cars and will not benefit the person who wants to stop for a short time in front of some store or business place.

The chief does not favor lurking the streets over as a storage place for automobiles.

Traffic Increasing

The number of automobiles is continually increasing, he points out. The result is there are a greater number of cars to be driven through a given space in a given length of time. As the chief sees the question there is only one way to do that and that is to drive them through faster.

A double line of cars moving in either direction is the chief's suggestion as a means of speeding up traffic. This is impossible unless cars are parked parallel with the curb on the main thoroughfares of the city.

A series of interviews made recently by a representative of The Star with councilmen, automobile club officials and city officials shows them to be overwhelmingly in favor of parallel parking. Out of six interviews only two persons showed any partiality toward diagonal parking. One was a member of city council and the other a former member.

Council will probably decide the question at its next meeting. Official circles it is generally believed that the question is already settled and remains only to be acted upon by council to become law.

Present indications are that the decision of council will not coincide with the opinions of automobile club and city officials who have made a thorough study of the problem. City officials especially, who have stated their opinions through this column, come in daily contact with the problem in the exercise of their duties. Their experience has shown them that parallel parking is the only solution to the problem, they state.

Unless present reports are erroneous, however, council will establish parking diagonal on Main and Center sts. and parallel on all other streets in the city.

COMMANDERY HAS ANNUAL MEETING

W. N. Harder Gives Address at Knights Templar Christmas Observance

The Marion Commandery, No. 31, Knights Templar, held its annual Christmas observance yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in the Masonic Temple. This Masonic observance is held every year all over the world at the same time under instructions from the Grand Master of the Grand Encampment.

William N. Harder, member of the local commandery, gave the main address. He spoke on the spiritual side of Christmas celebration. A mixed choir conducted by DeWitt Shadaker sang several selections, among which was "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Plans for a brief program at the Marion County Children's home next Tuesday have been completed, according to James A. Knapp, secretary of the commandery. The program will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and presents will be distributed to all the children.

Thursday night, officers of the Marion lodge, No. 70, F. & A. M., will be installed, while Friday night there will be a public installation of officers of DeMolay chapter.

BOARD TO ELECT

Local Realtors To Name Officers at Meeting Friday

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the regular dinner meeting of the Marion Real Estate board Friday night at Hotel Harding. Nominations have been made for the offices of president, two presidents, secretary, treasurer, national committeeman and for member of the state executive committee.

R. T. Lewis, retiring president, will address the meeting, tracing the real estate development in the city during the last year. The Building Exchange project will also be up for discussion.

TWO FIREMEN KILLED IN OIL PLANT FIRE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26—Two firemen lost their lives, nine others were injured and damage estimated at $500,000 was done when fire broke out twice at the Heidelberg plant of the Carnegie Refining Co. near here. The flames were brought under control today after first sweeping through the plant yesterday morning and again breaking out last night.

START SEWER WORK IN BOWEN ADDITION

2,000 Feet of Drainage Sewer Planned In Development Project

Preliminary work for sewer extensions in the Bowen Real Estate Co. sub-division was started today under supervision of City Engineer T. S. Cathers.

Plans call for the construction of 2,000 feet of sanitary and storm water sewer in the division. The new lines will parallel Minnehaha st., Washington av. and Walnut st. As soon as the survey is completed the work will be started and it is expected to be completed within a few weeks.

With completion of the sewer in these three streets it is expected that several new dwellings will be erected in the spring, according to Hoke Boulton, official of the Bowen Co.

The Bowen division is located in the southeastern section of the city and has already been partially developed. Plans are now being made to increase the development.

If press agent lies were penalized like that down here, every circus in the country would go bankrupt.

Permanent Registration.

There is a movement afoot to ask the legislature this winter to enact a permanent registration bill. The proposal will be fathered in the general assembly by the Hamilton county delegation. Inclusion of the rural districts in the proposal will be a departure, but that is the plan of the sponsors of the measure.

Under the proposal as it now stands, all persons eligible to vote will have to register, but will be required to register only once, unless they change their place of residence. Thus the registration becomes fixed and permanent, and will do away with the expense of registering the electorate every four years. At this time the rural voters are not required to register at all.

Revision of the state election laws very likely will meet with opposition in the general assembly, especially from members of the rural districts. Inasmuch as they never have been compelled to register, there is likely to be antagonism from the rural voters when the Hamilton county proposal is sprung on them. But it there any real reason why they should not register?

Under the permanent registration plan the county election officials in each of the eighty-eight counties of the state would have a stable record indicative of the actual voting strength of their subdivision, to be changed only when a man or a woman changed his or her abode, or when a new voter moved into the county, or when young men and women became of voting age.

This would obviate the necessity for further registrations, would reduce the operating cost of the board of elections, would save considerable money in the printing of ballots and would provide a complete record of the voting population of the county.

Men closely acquainted with election work have for some time been of the opinion that permanent registration is greatly to be desired, but there always has been objection to the proposal from the politicians who have ward and precinct patronage to look after, and who are expected to "deliver" the vote at the polls. Had there been permanent registration and less political contrivance in Cuyahoga county there would have been no election scandal there on the eve of the last general election such as there was.

In the interest of the over-burdened taxpayer, the permanent registration proposal appears to have considerable merit.

Staggering Loss Due to Accidents.

Accidents cost the people of the United States the enormous sum of $5,200,000,000 annually. Such is the estimate of the National Safety council given out last week for publication. Accidents in industry lead with an estimated cost aggregate of $1,000,000,000. Accidents in the home are figured at $150,000,000 loss. Automobile accidents figure third in the loss aggregate, being placed at $800,000,000, and the annual loss as the result of fires is estimated at $550,000,000.

No attempt is made by the council to estimate the average life loss or loss from injuries, but the fatal accidents in 1927 reported number, in round figures, 95,000, while 10,000,000 suffered injuries which did not prove fatal. Industrial accidents alone in 1927 are held to have cost 320,000,000 working days.

With such staggering figures as these before us, it is evident that the time is not yet at hand when the preaching of "Safety First" can safely be abandoned. In fact, in the face of such figures, it is manifest that there is imperative need for greater adherence to the "Safety First" idea. We do not mean more force to the preaching of it, but rather more force to the practice of it.

Thirty-two-hundred million dollars! That means an annual loss due to accidents equal to the value placed for taxation on all the realty and all the personalty of thirty-two counties like this in which we live.

There is no occasion for fear that there may be a diminution of White House dog stories for dull news day with the coming administration change. Mrs. Herbert Hoover has already been presented a pedigreed collie puppy, named "Behoover."

The revelation of the part played by the late Arnold Rothstein in the garment and fur workers' strikes in their city can hardly have taken New Yorkers wholly by surprise. From the methods pursued, it was realized that they must have been directed by an arch criminal.

"Congress Is Cowardly."

Referring to the slaying by a band of aliens of an important witness in a kidnaping case to prevent him from testifying against three members of the band charged with the crime, a leading Chicago paper says editorially:

"Congress has been asked to give this country the protection of a law permitting the deportation of aliens when it is apparently desirable to be rid of them. Congress counts votes, and refuses to pass such a law. European police may get rid of any alien they suspect of being a menace to the public security. America can rid itself of them only when they have been convicted of crime.

"As aliens they have no rights which the community threatened by them is required to respect, but congress is too cowardly to furnish the relief."

We can not recall ever having come upon a more concise sizing-up of the situation from which this country beyond all others is suffering today than the foregoing nor a truer estimate of the poverty of congress in the matter of courage, but we can not see how any relief can reasonably be anticipated so long as the primary system obtains.

Stop and consider a bit. Size up both houses of congress as they exist today and say to yourself, if you can: "There wouldn't be the slightest change in either house so far as quality is concerned if the old convention system were again to be put into force. We get just as good men on their own initiative through the primary as we did in the days of the party convention when the best men available were selected that they might not only attain, but also hold the jobs."

Mrs. Lau, of the New York Democratic forum is criticizing Herbert Hoover for "having a wonderful time at the expense of the American people," which goes to show what queer ideas some people have regarding what constitues "having a wonderful time."

Mr. Mussolini isn't a bit like one who can not take his own medicine. When his paper was barred by the censor for running a crime story, headed "Wounds His Fiancee and Kills Self in Father's Presence," he commended the censor for taking action and printed an apology to the public in the next day's issue of the paper.

An Oklahoma jury has awarded Justice J. W. Clark, of the supreme court of that state, $50,000 damages in a suit brought by him against the Tulsa World and O. O. Owens, an oil man and state legislator, for an alleged libelous signed political advertisement and article, published in the World, attacking members of the Oklahoma supreme court, which may open the eyes of those who do not realize that the fact that an advertisement bears a signature in no way estops a libel proceeding against the newspaper printing it.

Vagrant Verse.

FOR SLEEP.

There is no way with sleep, but to die each night—
Drop like a drowning swimmer in the flow
Of heavy waters crushing out the light,
Closing above a last thin watery glow.

Unfearing and unhoping, you must ride
The lonely current of a nameless stream,
That bears you onward toward its ocean's tide
With weight of waters heavier than dream;

And down beyond the world at last you will sink
Deeper than time, and where all time is vain;
And in the abode of sleep, as beyond the brink
Of death, give up the body and the brain.

Knowing you can not wake, nor any sound
Trouble your silence like a distant bell;
Knowing that nothingness will close you 'round,
And in its still embrace you will fare well.

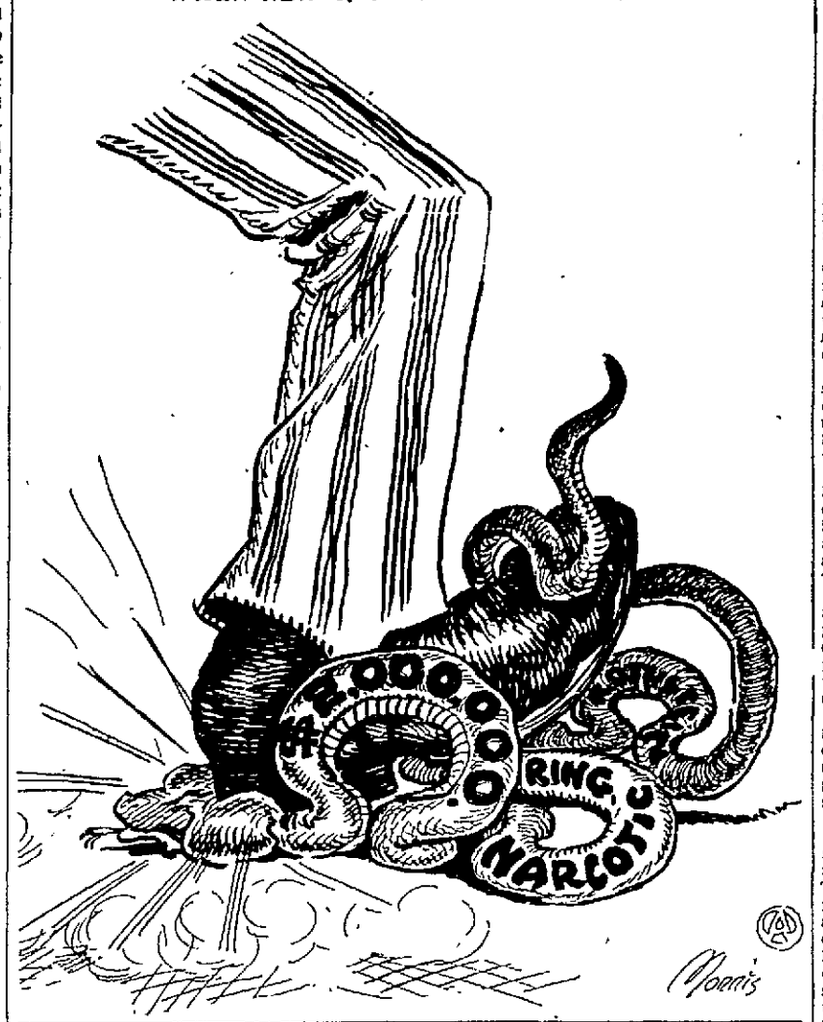
WHEN NEW YORK FAILED TO ACT.



Care of Infants Is Essential.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Somebody mailed me a poem. It may not amount to much according to the rules of poetry, but it heralds an important truth.

Here is the first stanza:

"Thrilled and happy as you may be at the advent of a baby—
And who wouldn't be exuberant with joy?—
You will presently discover that a lot of problems hover
Round the rearing of a girl or boy.
Love can't be your sole reliance—it should aid,
not hamper science,
And, although your heart with ecstasy may
throb,
Sense and wisdom, too, are needed.
Here's the motto to be heeded:
Know your job.
Building bodies strong and ruddy is a task for toil and study.
Know your job."

I don't vouch for the technical features of this poem, but I thoroughly indorse its teachings. No mother can raise her baby unless she knows her job.

Love is found in the heart of every mother. If need be, she is ready to die for her child. But, as the poet said "love can't be the sole reliance." "Building bodies strong and ruddy" is a task for toil and study."

If mother and baby are fortunate enough to be able to depend on breast-feeding all is well. Under those circumstances there is little to worry over. Regularity in the feedings, and attention to fresh air and sunlight, will make the future of the baby very bright.

But when weaning time comes, or in case it is found necessary to take the breast away soon after the baby's birth, then, indeed, the mother has a real job on her hands. It is true, too, that if that baby is to thrive, she must know her job, and every detail of that job.

Preparing the feedings requires the greatest care. The utensils and the mother's hands must be clean.

When I say "clean" I mean a lot more than the removal of visible dirt. The hands of the mother who prepares the feedings must be just as thoroughly cleansed as the surgeon cleanses his.

The utensils for preparing the milk must be boiled and kept in a perfectly clean place. The bottles must be prepared with the same care.

I need not tell you that the milk must come from healthy and clean cows. It must be kept in a temperature low enough to keep it free from the suspicion of taint.

The particular formula will be prescribed by your doctor. But there must be greatest accuracy in measuring out the proportions of milk, water, and other ingredients.

Then the feedings must be given on a railroad schedule. The schedule must not be varied five minutes.

You can see that to know the job, is vitally essential to the welfare, indeed to the very life of the infant. It is indeed true that "Building bodies strong and ruddy is a task for toil and study."

Know your job

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

R. O. T. C. Q—What should a girl of fifteen four feet ten inches tall weigh? What will increase the height? What is the cause when one does not grow in height properly?

A—You should weigh about 110 pounds. You will probably grow a little taller since you are only fifteen. General exercise will aid development. In some instances a glandular condition is responsible for the condition you describe. See your doctor.

K. C. K. Q—I have dizzy spells, nervous and feel light-headed when out in a crowd. My knees feel weak and numb at times. What would you advise?

A—Poor circulation and nervousness are probably responsible for your condition. Build up your health in general and your entire system, including your nerves, will benefit. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

ATTACKING SECRETARY MELLON.

Congressman Garner holds Secretary Mellon personally responsible for the huge tax refunds with which the treasury has been saddled, accuses him of issuing fiscal reports and estimates to influence legislation before the congress and infers that he deliberately deceived Mr. Coolidge with respect to an expected surplus of $37,000,000. These are serious charges, which a discreet man would hesitate to utter outside the halls of congress. Wrapped in the immunity that surrounds his office, Congressman Garner talks as if he would have Secretary Mellon kicked into the street like an incompetent and dishonest clerk.

At the bottom of the disagreement of the ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee with the secretary of the treasury is their divergent views on the estates tax and the graduated income tax. Congressman Garner gives both these measures his unqualified blessing; Secretary Mellon regards the estate tax as properly belonging to the several states, and he has pointed out the evil possibilities of carrying surtaxes to extremes. There is room for an honest difference of opinion as to the virtues of these two fiscal measures; but they afford no excuse for any such charges as Congressman Garner has just delivered. The explanation of his tirade must be sought elsewhere.

As soon as it was hinted that Mr. Hoover might invite Secretary Mellon to continue in the cabinet, word came out of Washington that attacks on the latter's conduct of his department might be expected from two quarters. Secretary Mellon has not been persona grata with some of the prohibition organizations; and his fiscal tenets have run counter to those of a socialistically-inclined group in the congress. A dry broadside was delivered at him a few days since. Are Congressman Garner's charges part of the same attack?

When Mr. Hoover makes up his official family, if he wishes Secretary Mellon to become a member of it and Secretary Mellon accepts, all the fulminations the gentleman from Texas can indulge in between now and March 4 probably will have little weight against the splendid record of service to the country that the secretary of the treasury has built up under the last two administrations.—Detroit Free Press.

THE FUEL OF LIFE.

Three times the Willard Gibbs medal of the American Chemical society has been awarded to men in the government laboratories in Washington.

The latest award—to Professor Claude S. Hudson of the hygienic laboratory—serves once more to emphasize the brilliance and fundamental importance of the researches carried on by these government chemists from year to year. Most of the time they work in unrelieved obscurity, their only reward being the satisfaction they feel in the advance of knowledge.

The medal was established in 1911 and named in honor of the Yale professor who was one of the founders of modern chemical science. The first award was to the late Professor Svante Arrhenius, of Sweden, famous for his theory of the electrical conductance of solutions. Other foreign chemists who have received the medal have been Mme. Curie, of France, who discovered radium, and Sir James Irvine, of Scotland, noted for his studies of sugars and cellulose.

The other two Washingtonians who have received the medal are Dr. William A. Noyes, formerly chief chemist of the bureau of standards, and Dr. Frederick G. Cottrell of the department of agriculture.

The work of this year's medalist has been largely with the structures of sugars. He probably has thrown more light than any living man on the nature of the fifty odd varieties of sugar, only a few of which are at present of any commercial importance.

It is impossible now to estimate the value of this work. It is certain to be of extreme practical importance in years to come. The very nature of sugar makes this inevitable. The human and animal body is a machine which produces energy by burning fuel. The only fuel it is equipped to burn is sugar, in one form or another. It may have been transformed into fat before it is fed to the human furnace, but it is still fundamentally sugar. It is difficult to overestimate the value of exact knowledge concerning the fuel that feeds the furnaces of life.—Washington Star.

Dinner Stories.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 26—Those who know say the time is not far distant when America will lead the world in designing clothes for women, and New York instead of Paris will become the style capital. This trend has become extremely pronounced in more ways than one.

Paris is already sending her copyists seasonally to New York and some of the French houses have experts permanently stationed here to watch for the changing modes in the glorified dressmaking establishments of Fifth avenue and the "East Fifties."

The courterfere of Paris no longer gives that individual attention that was so flattering to the individual customer. The big salons have found greater profits in mass production. The dress once exclusively designed for the single customer is now turned out in gross lots.

It is a frequent experience of the American shopper in Paris who believes she has the only model extant to find a half dozen replicas at the concert aboard ship coming home to say nothing of the windows filled with them when she walks up Fifth avenue.

New York dressmaking establishments have acquired all the glitter and charm that once delighted the visitor to Paris. There is the same type of gushing saleswoman with a French accent to flutter and coo and walk all the way to the sidewalk with a departing "Bon jour, Madam."

Many salons, too, like their French prototypes, are in fine old mansions of another period, with high ceilings, marble stairways, crystal chandeliers and mirrored walls. The pantherine mannikins are as slinking in their walk as those abroad. And prettier, if any one telephones.

In other days fashionable ladies departed for Paris with two or three frocks and several capacious trunks and returned stocked up with the latest creations. Today the process is reversed. The well-dressed lady stocks up in New York before sailing.

Almost every ultra dressmaking establishment, incidentally, has what is known sub rosa in the trade as a "Screaming Room." This is a sort of chamber of horrors far from passing patrons and sound proof. There are few places where women surrender so completely to nerves as in dressmaking parlors. A badly-fitting gown or a long series of delays, disappointment, etc, frequently skyrockets a customer into unrestrained hysteria, and this is quite naturally disturbing to the trade.

Male fashions along the avenue this winter have a decided Mid-Victorian touch. This is especially marked in the come-back of the Chesterfield overcoat with its wide silk faced lapels and well-corseted sides. The Chesterfield was hot stuff in the day of crinolines and high stepping bays when great dandies never failed to parade the avenue at 5 o'clock. Other fillips to the vogues of yesteryear are the return of the flat bowler hat, wing collars and the starched shirt front. Mr. Menjou, of the films, is said to have contributed largely to the latter sartorical renaissance.

Just as New York is nosing out Paris as a pace setter in feminine styles, so is Hollywood surpassing Gotham in masculine fashions. Great screen lovers must be elegantly tailored both on and off the many studios have experts whose job is to keep the heores all Brummeled up.

These style vagaries sent me to the telephone—what's a dime after all?—and a famous dressmaker said Mlady could not keep up to the minute in clothes for less than $15,000 a year. A gentleman's tailor said a complete wardrobe for Mgentleman would total around $6,000.

* * *

Wall Street brokers and high salaried actors buy the most expensive clothes. The smartest tailor charges $195 for a business suit and a lady's frock in the most exclusive shop is $325. Who remembers when the most expensive suit was $20 with a free choice of a banjo or catchers' glove tossed in?—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Feeling the Earth Go Round.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"If you will kindly explain the following question I am sure it will be appreciated by many besides the present writer. As it has been proven by Columbus that this earth is round and by scientists that it rotates, why do we not feel the fact that we are rotating with the earth?—D. J. L., Chicago."

We do feel it—we feel it with our eyes, for vision is only a more sensitive kind of touch, actuated by the light waves striking the retina. When we see the sun, the moon and the stars go by in the sky, all swinging westward, we are feeling, optically, the rotation of the earth. You feel in a similar way, optically, the rotation of a large, smooth-running merry-go-round, for if you close your eyes you can not detect the motion with the duller senses.

We are here on the door-step of the Einstein theory of the nature of gravitation. The characteristic of gravitation is that it makes things fall toward a so-called center of "attraction." But Einstein says that falling is not due to any force of attraction, but to a certain inherent structure of space, which we had better not attempt to explain here. But, at any rate, Einstein points out, as demonstrative of his theory, that a man falling in a closed box would not feel his motion—until he struck the earth, or met with some other resistance. But if there were a peephole in the side of the box the man would perceive the falling optically as he passed stationary, or less swiftly moving objects. So, unconsciousness of motion simply depends upon the quality of the senses that it soothes to sleep.

You ask whether the great size of the earth may not be the cause of the fact that we are not readily aware of its rotation by feeling and whether if we were situated within a hundred feet of the rotating center, we should not feel that we were traveling in a circle. But how fast do you think you would be moving if you were withing a hundred feet of the earth's center? On the surface, at the equator, where the motion is fastest, the rotation of the earth is at the rate of about 1,466 feet per second, and you do not feel it, except as I have said, "optically." Within 100 feet of the center the rotation is at the rate of a little more than thirteen feet per hour! How could you expect to feel that? Have you reflected upon the fact that the earth turns no faster than the hour hand of a twenty-four-hour clock? The motion of the hour hand of an ordinary watch, dialled into twelve hours for a circuit, is angularly just twice as fast as the earth's rotation.

The centrifugal force of the earth's rotation, which is 1-289th of gravity on the surface at the equator, varies as the square of the rotational velocity and inversely as the radius. So it would be practically insensible at 100 feet from the center, i. e, 100 feet radius, although it can be easily perceived at a radius of 4,000 miles, and if the speed of rotation were increased seventeen times the centrifugal force on the equator would become equal to gravity, and then, if you were an equatorian, you know how it feels to weigh nothing at all.

Some sticklers are not satisfied with the ordinary proof that the earth rotates—which astronomers are content with because they know other things—and insist that the apparent westward motion of the heavens is a real one. The gyro-compass, which I have recently briefly explained in this column, shows graphically that the astronomers are right, as the Foucault pendulum, the course of winds, the rotation of cyclones, the flow of ocean currents, and many other natural phenomena did long ago.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The Baumes law in New York, which provides life imprisonment for habitual criminals, whether the offense is extremely serious or not, is properly copied by other state legislatures. The fourth conviction, no matter what the charge, sends the convicted man to prison for life under the provisions of this drastic measure. Such a law speaks to the habitual criminal in the language he can understand. Feeling the teeth in the Baumes law he moves on to another state. Other states will do well to stimulate their legislatures to activity.

To say that a man is versatile—that he can do many things—is usually to give him praise. But versatility is not always a desirable quality. In the first place the versatile fellow often does not do anything outstandingly well. In the second place he may be versatile in useless or worse than useless accomplishments. Let us remember that one reason why the corn borer is so hard to exterminate is that it can live on more than 200 different kinds of plants.

The corn borer is versatile.

Those who are mentally progressive frequently believe in a great many things as unquestionable and unmixed goods which are only partly good and which need a great deal of intelligent regulation. For instance almost everybody believes in popular education and democracy. But somebody has said, comparing the old days in England when there were few free schools and little popular education with the present days when there is a great deal of popular education, said: "They have just taught the fools to talk."

There are, perhaps, about as many fools as ever, only in the old days they said less and perhaps were less of a nuisance to those of the educated classes who were really prepared and trained to govern the rest.

And as to democracy, thoughtful people, while believing in the experiment, know that it is still on trial. It may in the long run prove to have been far from the best possible type of government.

Democracy calls for the most earnest and generous cooperation from all the inhabitants in the nation. The fact is that few are willing to give great cooperation, and a much larger number are unable to give intelligent cooperation.

"gabbiest person in the world."

One of the contestants put a little "pep" into the lung tournament by emitting cat-calls A flapper on a nearby platform tried to take the play away from him by strumming a guitar while she sang. A youth with a sallow complexion drowned her out He sang

"My wild Irish rose,
"The fairest flower that grows."

Some of the spectators unkindly shouted, 'Get the hook."

F. M. Wilkesbarre, who terms himself sirfessor of superology, made a speech in which he said, in part:

"The simpoleon is a mass of matter that does not matter; the dempoleon, one with bow-legged beliefs and knock-kneed notions; the psycholeon, one who gazes into the eyeball of ecstasy without getting dizzy with delight when he murders the microbe of misery; and the egotrat is one who manufactures mirth until the juice of joy comes from every pore galore—with an encore and then some more."

Claude Yeomans, Australia's mighty atom, explained as clearly as mud "The Infinitude of Space."

A legal looking entrant asked himself a 50,000 word hypothetical question and answered himself as follows: "No."

Mounted on Platform

The contest, unique to say the least, is taking place in a large circular room which is brightly lighted. Close to the wall, all around the room, are the platforms from which the contestants speak and shriek. Behind each platform is a small canopy containing a cot, a chair and a small reading lamp. A staff of maids, nurses, dentists and physicians are in attendance.

Promoter Crandall professes to be eager to determine by means of this marathon which sex is the 'gabbiest." He got the bright idea for the contest when he read of a divorce case in which the husband asked for a decree on the grounds that his wife did all the talking.

Don't take needless risks with flu

[germs may be spread by hands]

Wash often with the toilet soap that removes germs as well as dirt

AGAIN flu threatens!

Once more health authorities are fighting it, calling for your cooperation, urging every precaution.

Seven protective measures against flu—listed below—have been compiled by the Life Extension Institute. Study these rules carefully. Follow them all—especially rule No. 2 about keeping hands germ free. The simplest rule of all—yet one of the most important.

Whose germ-laden hands touched it before yours?

For your hands are continually coming in contact with germ-laden objects—car-straps, banisters, door knobs, public telephones, money—and many more things that you and your children must touch.

And, since it is not yet certain exactly how influenza is spread, it is doubly important to do all you can to avoid it. Hands may carry it. Note statement of U. S. Public Health Service on how germs are spread by hands.

So, take this simple precaution and urge every member of your family to do the same. Wash hands oftener—always before eating and always with the toilet soap that removes germs as well as dirt.

The favorite toilet soap of millions purifies

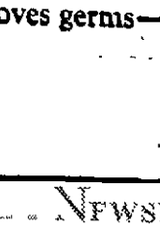
Millions demand Lifebuoy for every toilet and bath purpose, just because they find it so refreshing, so cleansing, so safe for delicate skins, so effective in keeping away perspiration odor.

But Lifebuoy is far more than just a fine toilet soap. Its penetrating antiseptic lather removes germs as well as dirt.

Note its re-assuring hygienic scent



You MUST touch door handles, though other hands may have left them germ laden

Lifebuoy's pleasantly hygienic, re-assuring scent, which vanishes as you rinse, tells you it gives greater protection. Yet Lifebuoy costs no more—probably less—than the soap you now use.

You can get Lifebuoy wherever soap is sold. Start using Lifebuoy today as a common sense health measure.

What U. S. Public Health Service says:

"If a germ could talk, it would tell you that nothing pleases him more than to get a free ride from someone's soiled hands to some other person's mouth."

—U. S. Public Health Service Broadcast No. 96

Don't fear Flu—fight it these seven ways
Rules by LIFE EXTENSION INSTITUTE
1 Keep out of crowds all you can.
½ Remove germs from hands as often as possible.
3 Get plenty of rest, sleep, exercise, fresh air and nourishing foods.
4 Avoid exposure to chill and wet, especially when tired.
5 Fortify yourself to resist the flu by having a health examination
6 If you have the real flu don't take home remedies—call a doctor.
7 Be careful in convalescence. It is a danger period.

Daphne

An Unusual Romance of Love and Sacrifice

BY HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER FORTY-NINE

[illegible] took all Mrs. Turner's powers of [illegible] persuasion to get Daphne up-[illegible]airs. "There's no use of my going, [illegible]s. Turner—it might make him [illegible]se. He said he never wanted to [illegible]e me again. I just came because I thought he—he changed his [illegible]nd—"

"You'll find he's changed his mind, [illegible]right," Mrs. Turner said grimly. [illegible]e's had plenty of time to change [illegible]lying out there with a broken [illegible]k all afternoon. Just put your [illegible]ad in the door and see what he [illegible]ys, there's a sensible girl—"

And in the end, that was what she [illegible]d.

In the pink shaded night light, [illegible]rounded with the chintz and pink [illegible]s with which Adelina had draped [illegible]e big front bedroom, he looked [illegible]respectly wrinkled and old. He [illegible]y like a log, silent and motionless [illegible]der Adelina's lace spread, and not [illegible]en the pink shaded light could dis-[illegible]mble the sooty pallor of his waxy [illegible]ce. Death's hand was already [illegible]on him.

He didn't seem surprised to see [illegible]. It was as if he had been ex-[illegible]cting her. His eyelids flickered. [illegible]hat you, Daphne?" he whispered.

"Yes, father," and she came and stood by the bed, not trusting herself to speak.

Long minutes passed. He was mumbling under his breath . . . "ye who do earnestly and truly . . . was always good . . Adelina . . bought her . . . everything . . ."

She moistened his lips with the water at his bedside and he smiled and said in almost his natural voice, "You got the money I sent?" He seemed so anxious that she nodded, and lied to please him. "Yes, I got it, Father," and he smiled, and mumbled but nobody could understand what he was trying to say though the doctor and Mrs. Turner who had followed Daphne into the room, did their best, thinking it might be important.

Towards morning they told Adelina that he would not last the day and she stopped moaning and sat straight up in bed.

"What?"

The doctor told her again, kindly, and he called her a brave little woman, and patted her on the back when he saw that she rallied, and riet her eyes so that she could see him.

Mr. Turner, tired out after his long day, wiped his perspiring forehead and said, "I'm glad she stopped that confounded squealing. Enough to drive everybody crazy."

"Yes, she let up when her fears were appeased!" his wife said vindictively. "Oh don't worry, she wasn't crying over him! She was crying because she thought she was going to have a paralytic on her hands, and now she's happy because he's going to die!"

But even Mrs. Turner was upset by the tears Adelina shed at the old man's bedside. "My dear, do try to control yourself!" she begged. "Think how poor Mr. Haines will feel!"

She might have saved her sympathy. Old Man Haines never spoke again but he died happy with his beloved wife weeping on one side of him, and his prodigal daughter whom he felt he had nobly forgiven, on the other side. With a last pitying look for the two he was leaving, he closed his eyes . . . Martha had always been so gentle . . . he felt sure she would understand . . . Martha, and Martha's God . . .

Crystal turned up about noon on Sunday, long after tall Mrs. Turner, and short Mr. Turner had taken their weary way home. The nurse who arrived too late do anything for old man Haines, was sitting with his widow who declined to be left alone.

Daphne, washing dishes in the kitchen, heard footsteps on the front porch and went to open the door.

"Well, for heaven's sake, when did you blow in?" Crystal wanted to know. She was wearing a new spring suit of a particularly brilliant blue, a quantity of barbaric jewelry, and a gay corsage of violets and red roses, and looked anything but downhearted.

"Last night—late," Daphne said, and went back to the kitchen with Crystal following. They might have parted yesterday. It couldn't be possible that they hadn't met for a year.

Crystal laid her hat on the oilcloth covered table, and fluffed her yellow hair. "Right into the dishpan already! Really, Daphne—you're hopeless. Isn't there a cook, or did it leave? Mama wrote—"

"Yes, there was a woman. She quit yesterday—before they —they found Father——"

"Found Father! You speak as if it was at the bottom of the well, but I'm not that optimistic. I suppose he had a stroke . . . why Daphne you don't mean he's dead?"

Daphne nodded. She couldn't quite bring herself to talk about it to Crystal. For a few moments just before the end he seemed to belong to her, as he never had befor. He had looked at her, as if there were things he would say . . .

"Well, for heavens' sake!" Crystal marveled. "Well! I am surprised. Decent of him, I call it. Where's Ma, upstairs? I'll bet she's braving up bravely. Shh—she didn't poison him or anything? Oh Daphne, don't look so solemn—why pretend? It's a good job he's done, and you ought to be doing a hula hula dance to celebrate. The way he treated you . . . well, if I hadn't been celebrating a feud with you at the time I'd have bitten his thumb to show my feelings. What were we fighting over, do you remember? Girls will be girls . . . make me a cup of coffee while I go upstairs, there's a dear. I don't suppose there's any bromo. I've got a slight hangover? My dear, the party I was on last night! Ralph McKeritt suddenly got a notion that it would be a good idea to look in on a college party his house was giving and . . . are you sick or anything, Daphne?"

"No, just terribly tired. I've been up all night," Daphne said clinging to the kitchen table while the room whirled around and a dozen Crystals touched a dozen hands to steady her.

"Then you better make a cup of coffee for yourself too," Crystal sympathized. "Well, I'll go up and see Mama. Just yell when the coffee's ready.

Daphne conquered a wave of nausea that almost engulfed her. "Who wired you, Mrs. Turner?"

"Yes, old lady Turner—why?"

"Because I got my wire early. So early I was able to cancel an engagement I had—and come."

A shadow passed over Crystal's face . . . a quick suspicion . . . funny that Ralph only asked her the last minute! But no, it was too absurd . . . he couldn't have asked Daphne first. If he had she'd have gone, telegram or no telegram . . .

"Mine must have been delayed," she said airily.

And then as Daphne continued to cling to the table she pushed her into the nearest chair and made the coffee herself. "There—mind you call me when it's ready. And don't bother with the dishes if you feel so groggy, aren't we all rich now. Midas is dead?"

She felt very kind and rich already on her way up the stairs to her mother's room. She knew what Daphne didn't know, that there was a will, leaving half to Adelina, the other half to be equally shared between Daphne and herself.

"Believe me, if he hired a cook he was well fixed!" she called over her shoulder. "Us orphans won't starve!"

She meant to be even nicer to Daphne before their visit was over. Daphne must be conciliated, that old devil of a lawyer she worked for would probably put her up to breaking the will. There would be many little things about her mother's arrangement that wouldn't bear close inspection. Crystal thought, but heavens! Why worry. A few sweet words to Daphne and she was your willing slave.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

ME and Jubilee laid quite a while this morning when I had woke up, because it isn't every day that a fella's father gets her an automobile. And then when I went to let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth it looked like it had been snowing all night, and the snow was about a foot deep all over Furrel's roof.

When I had put on my britches and went down Peanuts and Nils and String and Pickles and Goop were in the barn waiting for me. All of them had new pocket knives and were whittling on the scantlings or cutting their names in the barn, and we all went and took a squint at our automobile, and we looked it all over and every one of them wished they were me. When I went in with the milk to strain it I asted my father why he had jacked the car up and took the hind tires off it, and his eyes bugged out and he asted me what I meant, and then I looked so funny because he looked so funny that he jumped up and went out, and when he saw the tires gone I never did see a man so mad. He said someone had come in and stripped it in the night, and then it had snowed so there were not any tracks, and he thought anyone ought to get capital punishment for swiping tires. He said he didn't mind the cost of them but it was the principle of the thing, and he rang up the police and I didn't hear what they said, but they must of laughed at him and told him to lock his garage from the things he said to my grandfather, and then he had to go to work, but he went away mad. We got tired of looking at the auto and took our slays and went down to the pond and had a slide. I wish me and Jubilee could of caught the fella when he was taking our tires, I bet he would of got a puncture.

After we had slid a while me and Jubilee went home with Younisa to see what she got for Christmas, and she got a fur coat and leggins and a wrist watch and she said her mother said that the beads I gave her were the best thing she got, and her mother said she ought to kiss me again for them. Women aren't so very brite. I would rather have a piece of pie or something. When Younisa kisses she puts her arms around my neck and almost chokes me. Feeble came in just then and saw her kissing me and made out like she had fainted, and I took a glass of water off the dinner table and through it in her face and she came two. She said I ought to took the heads off the string and divided them amongst all my lady friends and then they would all have kissed me, and I told her that was what I was afraid of.

A man brang my father home from work and brang two new retreaded tires with him. He was still mad. I helped him put them on and he pinched his thumb.

Drive of Immigration Restrictionists Gets No Where

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—The drive of immigration restrictions to tighten up the immigration laws has met so many obstacles in the first three weeks of the present session of congress that they have virtually abandoned hope of important legislation this winter, it was disclosed today.

The attitude of the state department and political consideration are declared by the destrictionists to have checked their efforts to restrict Mexican and South American immigration, enact a drastic deportation bill, check smuggling of aliens and overcome a court decision which permits British subjects to enter from Canada for business purposes in defiance of the quota law.

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

BY ADELE GARRISON

Katie Returns from Her "Memorial"

"NO, I don't see what he's door."

I said in answer to Lillian's query concerning Samuel Brixton's ridiculously large tip to Katie. My voice was pettish, I knew, but I was seriously annoyed at the gratuity so disproportionate and so upsetting to discipline as I feared it would be.

"I don't wonder you're sore," Lillian said. "I could smack him soundly myself. But you see, he's reasoned this way, that you, a perfect stranger to him, were entertaining five of his family on this visit to me. He couldn't offer you payment, and that interview when you checked—and checked—him so effectively —showed him that he couldn't send you flowers or bon-bons. So he reckoned up what his bill for a day would have been at a good hotel, added a good little sum for tips, and gave the whole to Katie. He cannily made her wait until he had gone before opening the envelope, for he knew very well you wouldn't permit her to take it."

"Why did you tell her she could have it?" I asked reproachfully. "I must send it back to him, of course."

"You must do nothing of the kind," Lillian said sharply. "He's gotten away with the trick very cleverly, and you may never see him again. Let him have the honors of war. Besides I think he's done you a good turn with Katie. She's so joyous that she's likely to loosen up and spill that story about Mary that you suspect her of holding out on you."

I started and put Samuel Brixton's tip out of my mind.

"Here's a coincidence," I told her and Katherine, lowering my voice. "Today is remittance day for Mary—the Braithwaite letter came—she has announced her intention of driving with Prince Georges, and Katie asked me for permission to go to a 'me-mor-i-al' for the woman whose funeral she ostensibly attended the last time Marion drove out with Georges."

Lillian struck her clenched fist against her knee, and Katherine leaned forward, her eyes big and attentive.

"It may be coincidence," Lillian said, "but I'm inclined to think our Katie has hold of something. Let's check." She began to tell off points on her fingers. "On that last drive of Mary's with Georges, she didn't go to Easthampton as she told you she meant to do. But when they came back, Georges, to Mary's evident annoyance, told of seeing a 'freak' in fantastic mourning, a heavy crepe veil covering her features and with a ridiculous walk, in the Southampton postoffice where Mary had mailed a letter. Katie, who said she was going to Quogue to a funeral, had an outfit almost similar in the suitcase which opened so inadvertently at your feet. And when Katie came back she hinted at knowing things which to her peers at you, she did not intend to tell."

"It clicks so far," Katherine assented . . . . "I think it will be decidedly worth while to keep your handmaiden in her present good humor, Madge. Don't let anything happen to upset her before she leaves, and for the love of Mulatto, listen to her when she comes back. If she shows signs of wanting to lay her head on your shoulder and give you her confidence."

"She will have a most attentive listener," I promised, and kept my word when, upon Katie's return following hard upon that of Mary and Georges, my little maid summoned me to the kitchen in a most mysterious manner, and seating me in her cherished rocking chair, said dramatically:

"Meesis Graham, I find out things today I think you ought to know about dat Mary."

Hoover Going Directly to Washington from His Tour of Latin-America

Makes Switch in Plans Because of Pressure of Public Business; Will Spend Days in Capital Before Taking Vacation in Florida

ABOARD U. S. S. UTAH, VIA ARLINGTON, (VA., RADIO STATION), Dec. 26—With 11 days of uninterrupted cruising still ahead before the battleship Utah reaches Old Point Comfort, Va., on Jan. 6, President-elect Hoover today took things easy to conserve his energy for the busy days which will face him after he reaches Washington.

Mr. Hoover, it is believed, decided upon going directly to Washington instead of stopping off at Key West, Fla., because of the pressure of public business and affairs of a private nature.

According to his present tentative schedule, Mr. Hoover will spend about 10 days in Washington before going to Miami upon his intended vacation on the estate of James C. Penney, chain store magnate.

Two problems of major importance will face the president-elect upon his arrival at the capital. The first is the selection of his cabinet, a subject upon which he has not yet publicly uttered one word. The second is the question of an extra session of the new congress to make possible the passage of the farm relief legislation he advocated in pre-election speeches.

Will Decide Later

Whether or not he will visit Cuba and Mexico after his Florida vacation and before his inauguration also will be decided at Washington. Cuba and Mexico were omitted from Mr. Hoover's "good-will" tour because of his haste to return to the United States.

Everyone aboard was pleased at the change in schedule. The Utah's arrival in the bay of Chesapeake will facilitate the handling of the officials who accompanied Mr. Hoover on the tour and also of the newspaper correspondent and cameramen aboard.

The change in schedule may mean a 10-day vacation for many of the officers and crew of the Utah. The ship was to have gone south after reaching Florida to join an Atlantic scouting fleet in Guantanamo waters. Captain Train, however, has asked the navy department for permission to lay over at Hampton Roads for 10 days to refuel.

Decorations Everywhere

A holiday atmosphere still pervaded aboard the Utah today. Christmas decorations were in evidence everywhere. Seamen spent their off hours showing each other the gifts they had received.

The celebration which started with the singing of Christmas carols by the crew on the quarter-deck Monday night was climaxed by a gay and colorful dinner on the starboard side of the ship last night.

Captain Train acted as toastmaster. In responding to a toast in his honor, Mr. Hoover lauded the many peaceful contacts made by the United States Navy and expressed the hope that the navy would always be so engaged. Plain vichy and ginger ale were used for the toast.

Mrs. Hoover presented all at the dinner with gifts she had bought on her busy shopping tours in the various Latin-American capitals visited. The Utah's officers presented Mr. Hoover with an elegant pair of binoculars and Mrs. Hoover with a richly colored silk Spanish shawl.

A fat and jovial newspaper correspondent dressed as Santa Claus visited the seamen in the sick ward in the afternoon and gave them presents from a regulation navy bag he carried over his shoulder. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover also visited the sick men during the day, Mrs. Hoover bringing them candy and gifts.

ROSALIE is saying quite cheerfully, "Oh charge them." Of course, she won't be feeling so cheerful about it when her monthly statement arrives but then why think about that part now. She was feeling quite gay and reckless—a mood that always leads to extravagance. In this case leading to the purchase of a blouse printed in modernistic village scenes and a "fireworks" dress printed in exploding firecrackers, rockets, pinwheels, parachutes, flares and everything usually associated with the Fourth of July. Of course, Rosalia will realize in a day or two that these two purchases are superfluous additions to her wardrobe but she must have the latest novelties. Joyous Christmas Given Children at County Home

The Christmas celebration for children of the Marion County Children's home this year probably surpassed all previous marks in bounteousness, according to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Niles, superintendent and matron of the home.

The celebration started last Thursday night when members of the Marion Kiwanis club presented the children with gifts consisting of lawn swings, croquet sets, wagons and sleds, candy, oranges, pop corn and ice cream. But these things were not all the children received.

Kindergarten pupils of Mrs. G. E. Waddell and Mrs. Beatrice Seconds sent fruits an toys. The French club of Harding high school sent toys. Rompers Suits for children in the home nursery were added to the Christmas bag by the Campfire Girls of Prospect. The Christian Endeavor society of the Zion Reformed church of Prospect sent toys. Fred Lutz, of the Lutz Bros. grocery in Marion, sent a pail of candy and a crate of oranges.

Have Great Day

But yesterday was the big occasion for the children, according to the superintendent and matron.

Late in the morning the 58 children at the home were loaded into Mang Bros. buses and taken to Tender's Candyland, where a turkey dinner awaited them. After that there was a show at the Palace theater. A special section had been reserved. They saw "King of Kings" as special guests of the management.

The Christmas entertainment did not end with the show, however. Afterwards there was a party at Tender's, where Santa Claus distributed presents, candied fruit, ice cream and candy canes.

At shortly after 7 o'clock last night the party ended when the buses came to return the youngsters to the home.

Party for New Year's

The holiday celebration for the children will not be over, however, until New Year's day. Marion Knights Templars have arranged a party to be given at the home on that day. An orchestra and ventriloquist will entertain the children. There will also be treats.

Mr. and Mrs. Niles today expressed their gratitude to those who helped give the children of the home a very merry Christmas.

PEACE ASSURED

Bolivia's Reply Sends Pan-American Committee To Work

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—Christmas day brought renewed assurance of peace to the Chaco, that territory which even in its lustness of undeveloped forest is desired by both Bolivia and Paraguay, and today the conciliation machinery of the Pan-American conference here was again in motion.

Bolivia's belated reply to the questionnaire sent both belligerents by the special mediation committee set up by the conference, arrived in time yesterday to permit a renewal of efforts to settle the dispute arising from the recent border clashes in the spirit of "peace on earth."

It is of vast importance to clean out the entire intestinal tract, upper and lower bowels. Keep the kidneys well flushed and freshen and strengthen the blood

Experience Has Taught

The experience of the 1918 epidemic showed that one of the best and simplest treatments was to take a steaming hot cupful of Bulgarian Herb Tea

Why take any chances, why not be prepared to fight off your cold or "flu."

The right thing to do now is to go to your druggist, get a box of Bulgarian Herb Tea Kill off your cold. Take it steaming hot twice a week it will heat up the chilled blood, increase the circulation and rid the bowels and intestines of poisons and germs. Every family will find Bulgarian Herb Tea (purely vegetable) a real blessing to have on hand in this time of need.

See your druggist at once. Your health—perhaps your very life—may depend upon taking this simple precaution —Adv.

SAYS DRUNKENNESS SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Moderation League Claims 238 Per Cent Boost in Intoxication

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Coincident with the annual report today of Nicholas Murray Butler, militant anti-prohibitionist, who declared that when conduct and the law are at odds, the law is at fault, came the annual statistics issued by the Moderation League which claims that drunkenness over the country has increased 238 per cent since 1919.

Quoting figures received from police of 338 cities, the league showed that arrests for intoxication mounted from 235,012 in 1920 to 557,300 in 1927.

The report also brought out that for years prior to prohibition such arrests had shown a steady decline until the upward swing which set in with passage of the Eighteenth amendment.

The league concludes its report with the assertion that the law has utterly failed to do what it was intended to do in the promotion of sobriety and temperance and that it is hopeless of success. A restrictive system of liquor selling is advocated as a substitute to present conditions.

"Laws are not made by legislatures or by courts except in form, save in so far as the general will accepts them. No law which has to do with human thought or speech or conduct can by any possibility be enforced."

CURB DIVERSION OF ALCOHOL, IS PLEA

Maj. Chester P. Mills Wins $25,000 Prize Offered by Durant

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—"Starve the bootlegger by curbing the diversion of industrial alcohol."

That, in a nutshell, is the key to the prohibition enforcement riddle as advanced by Maj. Chester P. Mills, winner of the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant for the best and most practical plan for making effective the prohibition amendment. Mills would suppress independent denaturing plants and inaugurate a closer scrutiny of permits issued to perfumers, manufacturing chemists and other large users of legally manufactured alcohol.

Major Mills put his plan into operation when he was federal prohibition administrator for the New York District in 1926 and 1927. Removed from office after a tenure of 16 months, he asserted at the time that he had been hampered by politicians and had not had a chance to consummate his plan.

The plan of Malcolm D. Almack, Palo Alto, Calif., high school student who won the $5,000 school prize, will be made public Jan. 2. He will receive $1,000 and the school $4,000. Checks have been mailed to Maj. Mills, Almack and the Palo Alto school.

Major Mills passed lightly over the problem of importations, declaring the coast guard was handling it as well as could be expected. Nor did he propose a campaign against the individual imbiber or drinker.

CALLS ECONOMY VITAL TO MODEST CAR BUYER

H. Haberman Says Comfort and Performance Also Are Foremost Requisites

The kaleidoscopic changes that have occurred in low priced motor cars during the last two or three years make it clear, in the opinion of Harry W. Haberman Plymouth automobile dealer, that the buyers of modest price cars now demand economy of operation, comfort and performance above every other requisite.

"Only a few years ago the fundamental requirement of the lower priced cars was that they would run and continue to run," says Mr. Harry Haberman. "Today every buyer accepts that fact from every car. Therefore, buyers with a sharp eye to value are seeking economy of operation, freedom from service and a car that is comfortable.

"The Plymouth-type engine has, for years, been definitely established everywhere as the most economical of all power plants. More than 65 per cent of all cars owned have four cylinders. The tremendous army of those who must count the cost of motoring insists on economy of operation.

Most Critical Market

"The lowest priced is the most critical of all markets. Its buyers must be the most critical of all buyers. They demand that they receive the biggest dollar value for their money The greatest value a motor car can hand back to its buyer is the economy, performance and comfort he secures from it. This greater economy depends first on that certainty of performance which Chrysler engineering has always given, and gives in superlative measure in the Plymouth, not merely in gasoline and oil mileage but in freedom from complications and a simplicity of parts which keep down maintenance costs to a minimum

"To enjoy comfort it is imperative that a car be sufficiently large to give every passenger ample room. Comfort goes only with a full-sized car. The Plymouth is the largest car in its field, offering generous head room, leg room and elbow room for five adult passengers.

"It also enables every passenger to relax and stretch without being cramped The high grade of its upholstery and its fine quality cushions and springs are seen at a glance. For convenience in driving it has throttle and light controls on the steering wheel, just as in the more expensive cars.

Traces Other Advantages

"Its modern high-compression, four-cylinder L-head engine gives marked economy of operation and upkeep. Its main bearings measure nearly seven inches along its compact, sturdy crankshaft. Longer engine life is assured by its exclusive torque reaction neutralizer, rubber engine mountings, modern positive pressure feed oiling system and light alloy pistons. Internal expanding hydraulic weather proof brakes on all four wheels are a feature possessed by no other car near its price. Its larger tires and self adjusting spring shackles, another exclusive feature, make for easier riding and longer mileage.

"Its 45 horsepower engine yields characteristic Chrysler power, speed and acceleration coupled with quiet smoothness of operation. Its inherent balance and general ruggedness of construction combine this speed with a factor of safety enjoyed by no other car in its field."—Adv.

PREPARE FOR TILT

Marysville Cagers Practicing for Fray With Columbus

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 26—Smarting from their 10 to 17 defeat at the hands of Sidney last Thursday night, Marysville high basketeers are diligently preparing for tomorrow night's tilt with one of the four major Columbus high school teams, West. It is expected that the fray will necessitate the use of all Marysville men to down the Columbus boys. However, the Union county teams will be in better condition for the contest than they were for last week's, when Simpson, running guard and McMahon, center, both starters, were quite ill with the flu. They are reported to be recovering rapidly.

Coach Kingsmore is concentrating on goal-shooting this week, as this part of the game has been the least flashy of any of the departments of play, in the last three games. In the game last week, if the locals had made any showing at all in their shooting, they would have downed Sidney, but out of 12 free throws they made but three. West is one of the toughest squads on Marysville schedule, and the boys are going to have to find their shooting eye as well as show some speed tomorrow night.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

NEXT!

INSTANTANEOUS divorce is at last a fact, in Russia. A loving pair came back twenty minutes after the wedding ceremony, asked for a divorce—and GOT it! I call that "service!"

But why all this breathless haste to exchange mates before you have discovered the real color of each other's eyes? Why not stay married long enough, at least, to carry out a few of your friends' dire predictions?

No sooner does a woman get a man's digestion straightened out, these days, and his socks all darned up than her "time limit" with the husband is up and she has to move on to the "next."

No sooner does she succeed in teaching the children to call her current husband "Daddy," than the lawyer informs her that her case "will be called in January," and she has to begin training them all over again.

No sooner does she get acquainted with one set of in-laws, than she has to face the problem of conciliating another set.

No sooner has a woman adapted herself to a husband who prowls around half the night and has to be pried out of bed in the morning, than the "bell rings" on this round, and she has to get in condition to do battle with a husband who goes to bed with the birdies and is up with the lark.

No sooner has she induced her current husband to brush his hair another way, and stop throwing lighted matches on the floor, than the clock strikes midnight, and she has to look around for another man to "reform."

No sooner has she weeded out a man's old shoes, college sweaters and cravats and bachelor cronies, than the barometer hits zero on this matrimonial venture, and she is faced with the necessity of "breaking in" another unknown.

No sooner has she accustomed herself to her current husband's hobbies and habits, or trained him to turn off the radio at ten o'clock and to stop leaving his shoes under the piano, than she is "let out" of this job, and has to look for another.

No sooner has she accustomed herself to one man's brand of tobacco and alibis, taught him to hang up his pajamas, and thrown away all the photographs of his old sweeties, than the curtain is rung down on this domestic scene—and the next act finds her playing up to a new leading man.

The trouble with modern marriage is that nobody has the patience to read beyond the first chapter. If that is not thrilling and exciting, the book is shut with a bang—and they're calling for the "next" and looking for a brand new set of problems and troubles!—Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WILL GET TROPHY

Union County To Receive German War Gun as Souvenir

MARYSVILLE, Dec. 26—Through the efforts of Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, and Leo M. Scheiderer, commander of the Marysville Legion Post, Union county is to be one of the very few to have a German 210 mm. artillery piece as a war trophy.

Union county was already considered fortunate to get a "77" in the distribution of trophies as many counties did not receive any. General Henderson helped to secure this for his home county, and now before leaving office he has influenced the exchange of this for the larger one. Transportation expenses will be approximately $50.

Boxing Flourishes Throughout Country During 1928

NO ATTENDANCE MARKS ARE SET

Battle Between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney Proves Disappointing to Fans and Promoters, Tony Canzoneri Only Champion To Lose Title

NEW YORK, Dec 26—Boxing as a sport flourished throughout the country during 1928 While no new marks in attendance at any one contest were established or record purses paid out the game can be said to have enjoyed a successful season insofar as attendance as a whole is considered the number of boxers participating and the number of clubs established throughout the country

The commission form of regulation as adopted by the various states and localities exercising the local option method of approval attracted a high type of men to the game most of them serving without pay with the result that the game was conducted on a high plane

Heavyweights Off

The blue ribbon event of the year a heavyweight titular contest between Gene Tunney the champion and Tom Heeney of New Zealand the challenger proved a disappointment to the fans and the promoter as well It was the first failure Tex Richard has suffered in his checkered career of promoting fistic extravaganzas The Madison Square Garden Corporation backers of the affair, sustained a loss of $155 710 77 on the show

The contest was held at the Yankee Stadium New York City July 26 For two rounds the champion boxed carefully and sized up his opponent A long left found a resting place on the broad jaw of the solid rock from down under and a crashing right below the heart stopped the charging Heeney dead in his tracks

Heeney Beaten at Own Game

Tunney worked carefully and methodically He disdained to use his natural weapons fast footwork and a glancing left jab Instead the champion elected to stand toe to toe with his doughty opponent and beat him to the punch with straight blows

Tunney scored a knockdown in the tenth round the bell saving Heeney from a knockout Coming out for the eleventh round the New Zealander charged in with commendable courage and attempted to match blows with the sharp, hard hitting champion Beaten, dazed and helpless Heeney braced his back against the ropes hands at his sides swaying drunkenly under the rain of punches Tunney showered upon his face and body The referee Eddie Forbes, mercifully stepped between the men and halted the uneven contest The round had but eight seconds to go but it is doubtful if Heeney would have been able to toe the scratch for the twelfth round

Walker Keeps Title

In the middleweight ranks Mickey Walker retained his title although he defended it but once during the year This contest was held under severe weather conditions as a driving rain bathed the fighters throughout the bout Walker's opponent was Ace Hudkins who had outgrown the welterweight ranks The fight was a savage one and not strictly in accordance with the rules Both men were guilty of using illegal tactics Neither complained of the contest was permitted to run its full course ten rounds

In the welterweight class Joe Dundee retained his title although he did nothing really worth while As a champion Dundee was a disappointment He was hooted out by Young Jack Thompson whom he compelled to come in overweight to protect the title

The outstanding performer in the welterweight ranks during the year was Jackie Fields of California Fields beat Thompson on points and scored a knockout over Sergeant Sammy Baker conceded by many to be the ranking 147 pound fighter in the country

Terris Fades Out

One of the brightest stars in the lightweight firmament faded out during the year Sid Terris a speedy New Yorker, was knocked out of the picture by Jimmy McLarnin in the first round This victory earned McLarnin a fight with the champion Sammy Mandell

The fight took place in New York City on May 21 and Mandell was returned the winner after 15 rounds of one-sided boxing The champion furnished a superior brand of smart boxing and fairly dazzled the hard hitting McLarnin

Tod Morgan defended his junior lightweight title three times during the year On two occasions his opponent was Jelly Cannon

Ex former bantamweight champion Both contests went the full distance of 15 rounds with Morgan being returned the winner on points

Morgan held to a draw by Santiago Zorrilla in 10 rounds

Tony Canzoneri was the only world's champion to lose his title during the year Andre Routis of France was declared the winner and new featherweight champion after fifteen rounds of fighting at Madison Square Garden on September 28 In justice to Canzoneri it is only fair to record that the decision was not a clear cut one and could have gone either way

Routis has had one fight since assuming the leadership of the 126 pound class a 10 round non tabular affair with Dick Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston The New Madison Square Garden of Boston was the scene of the scrap Finnegan won handily over the new title holder

Bantams Mix Things Up

Bud Taylor was generally recognized as the leader of the bantam weights although Taylor persisted in fighting boys much heavier than himself and refused to make the class poundage When pressed to defend his title Taylor declared he could no longer make the weight and the title was declared open

Frenchy Belanger of Toronto was recognized by the N B A as the fly weight champion Belanger then lost the title to Frankie Genaro a former champion in ten rounds

On the Pacific coast Johnny McCoy of Cleveland won an elimination tournament to decide the best fly weight in that section of the country McCoy did not hold his title long as he was defeated by Newsboy Brown in ten rounds Brown had previously lost to Izzy Schwartz whom the New York Boxing Commission recognizes as the flyweight champion

Schwartz has had several fights nothing much to speak about in defense of his title and was returned the winner During a recent trip to Paris France Schwartz was hauled on by Spider Pladner on points The title was not at stake as Pladner was forced to weigh in several ounces above the 112 pound mark

ALUMNI FIVE HOLDS FINAL PRACTICE FOR GAME WITH HARDING

Coach Compton Calls Workout for Members of Varsity Squad

FINAL intensive practice drill was taken by the Harding Alumni squad Monday night in preparation for their annual clash with the varsity This game scheduled for Thursday night is expected to outshine all other grid varsity clashes in color flash and real basketball

Coach Baldy Compton of the high school team has ordered a vacation practice for this afternoon in an attempt to get his charges drawn up to a fine point It is no secret that Mr Compton has a great desire to put this game on the right side of the ledger while the grads, lead by Hugh Shultz are just as anxious to register a win It has been a long time since an Alumni team has handed a varsity five a setback but this year's quintet feel that they have the stuff to turn the trick

Taking Monday's practice as a guide the Alumni line is likely to take the floor with Charlie Evans and Hugh Shultz at the forward berths Father Partridge or Cram will take care of the center position while Bud Lewis is sure to handle one of the guards Who will be Lewis running mate depends upon the start in practice Partridge gets the call at center Cram will take the tip off until which If Cram takes the tipoff post Stafford will handle the guard position

Compton's starting lineup is not known at the present time although he will probably base his hopes on the five that beat Columbus West two weeks ago

PAULINO IS WINNER OVER JACK RENAULT

Spanish Heavyweight at His Best in South American Battle

CAFE COLOMBIA Dec 26—"Bring on Shaulty Stribling and Dempsey" was the battle cry of Paulino Uzcudin today as the gum munching old toothed Spanish heavyweight smilingly acknowledged the wild acclaim of thousands of South American fans who saw him batter his way to a 10 round decision over Jack Renault here yesterday

Fighting at his best before nearly 20 000 boxing fans who were with him to a man the Basque woodchopper outpointed Renault by a wide margin The former Canadian mauler made a desperate effort to get his man in the sixth round when he made the crimson spurt from Paulino's nose but the hardy Spanish battler weathered the storm and was easily Renault's master at all other stages of the fight

During the last four rounds the Woodchopper made furious efforts to reward his admirers with a knockout Renault withdrew within his shell however and managed to stay on his feet

Elimination Tournament for Heavyweights Dies

BY DAVIS J WALSH

NEW YORK Dec 26—Lately I have been too busy writing my new masterpiece entitled Ten Nights in a Barroom or What Not For sibly I had become so absorbed in listening to my arteries harden that even a great calumny passed me by unnoted Anyhow what I want to know today is who is the humane home responsible for the very apparent elimination of the heavyweight elimination tourney from our list of manly child like pleasures

Mister Richard is supposed to be heeling bravely into the land of the sky blue water tonight disregarding all personal sacrifice and discomfort He is leaving no word of fights to come except for a grumpy announcement about a match he didn't have Early in the year Paulino and Young Point engaged in what was scheduled as the final fight of the tourney There has been no second You couldn't call the Maloney O'Kelly business a heavyweight elimination The only thing that could possibly have been eliminated there was the customer's money

Paulino meantime has lined himself away to South America He wouldn't be down there at this juncture if the tourney seemed to be going places and doing things Tommy Loughran living here told by New York that he must fight heavyweights as a light heavyweight has signed for a fight under the auspices of Paddy Harmon in Chicago Rickard is said to have signed with Jim Mullen and Harney seems to be looking at the distant horizon with a pensive far away expression

If Mister Rickard has any plans they begin and end with the proposed Shaikey Stribling fight at Miami Beach Fla in February It is true that he matched Shaikey and Ki O Christner for January in a moment of weakness but otherwise it might appear that a heavyweight champion is to be elected at the end of the year with as little ostentation as possible

Am I thinking of John Dempsey? Don't be absurd John Dempsey has retired and he'll never fight again No sir boys not while he's conscious He never heard of Freud perhaps and the things one is liable to do subconsciously I have heard of men who accepted the proffered purses subconsciously you know in a detached distracted way Their minds were on something else undoubtedly

Anyway John is likely to be worth considerably more than a half million dollars pretty soon If he doesn't take it it would be a question of whether he is conscious He will be just plain silly Granting that he is notating of the kind we often will assume that his last fight is to be entered next summer His opponent will be the man they think look the best at the box office

It is evident that they intend to arrive at his selection without becoming too downright ingenuine They were that way last year and what did it get them Quite so Tom Heeney

WELTERWEIGHTS

1 Jackie Fields, 2 Joe Dundee, 3 Young Jack Thompson 4 Gorilla Jones, 5 Young Corbett III

JACKIE FIELDS compiled the best record of any welterweight in the country during the past year His victory over Young Jack Thompson who scored a knockout over Joe Dundee and his knockout of Sergeant Sammy Baker must be considered as marks of his sterling worth This writer thinks Jackie is too fast and clever for the rugged Dundee

Joe Dundee, the champion of the class and a good ringman is relegated to second place Joe has been away from active competition too long to do his best Dundee thrives on work something he has not done since winning the title The Baltimore battler must show better form than he has during the past year to qualify as the undisputed leader of the class

Young Jack Thompson Gorilla Jones and Young Corbett III follow in the order named They are to be reckoned as worthy opponents for any man in the 147 pound class

MIDDLEWEIGHTS

1 Mickey Walker 2 Georgo Courtney 3 Rene Devos 4 Ace Hudkins 5 Joe Anderson

WALKERS only fight in defense of his title that meant anything was a ten round victory over Ace Hudkins By stopping Armand Emanuel in seven rounds Walker redeemed an otherwise drab year Bear in mind that Mickey has consistently mauled the worthy contenders for his title

George Courtney is pressing Walker for the leadership The Oklahoman punches hard and cleanly and has much to recommend him

Rene Devos the European champion has a decision over Courtney to his credit and other worthwhile victories But Devos must repeat over Courtney and win by a decisive margin before he can replace George as the logical contender for the title

Ace Hudkins seems to be the same erebrand that he was as a welter He gave Mickey Walker a close fight but dropped a decision to Joe Anderson This took some of the glamour from the game stand he made against Mickey Walker

Joe Anderson has been coming fast If he continues at the same rate he may displace some of the boys higher up

Higher Prices Recorded In Motors, Oils During Slow Trading

HOLIDAY SALES ON MARKET ARE LIGHT

New York Standard Oil Feature of Industrials in Early Period

TIRE STOCKS FIRM

Bulls Afraid as Money Rate Advances to Nine Per Cent

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Industrial stocks reached a higher level of prices today, only to be pushed back by the selling pressure which accompanied the 10 per cent money market and the tightening up of the purse strings as far as money supplies for the stock market were concerned

The bulls were never very sure of their ground. They pushed a few of the motor car, oil and specialty stocks up with a snap in the forenoon Chrysler was the center of interest in the motor shares, with a three point jump to around 127, and Standard Oil of New York drew the spotlight in that section of the market, with a new rise to above 43. American Can and Briggs Manufacturing forged ahead

BY W S COUSINS
U. P. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Dec 26—Higher prices were quoted for a few of the motor car, oil and copper stocks at the start of trading today, but for the most part the market was slow and sluggish. Most of the "Christmas shopping" in industrial stocks had been attended to, judged by the small turnover of stocks in the first hour and the general unevenness of the market.

Standard Oil of New York was the big feature of the industrials in this period, with a new advance to the year's highest price, above 43. Chrysler sold up about three points at 126⅞ in heavy trading Willys-Overland advanced nearly two points to 31 Rubber and tire stocks were firm.

Once again the professionals had things pretty much to themselves as commission houses had little business coming in over the holiday. The bulls were a little afraid of the money market, the first loaning rate being posted at nine per cent but they feel sure that things will loosen up in the money situation after the turn of the year.

Radio Montgomery Ward, Bellas Hess and other skyrocketers were comparatively docile, moving up from two to five points Radio and Victor were on the inactive list, as also were the copper and steel stocks which have figured in so many spectacular runs.

Coffee Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—Declines of two to 36 points were shown by raw coffee futures at the opening today. March sold at 15.03. May 14.20 July 13.80, September 13.45 and December 13.20

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Despite a decided lull in buying today, prices in Marion produce markets remained stationary. However, a drop is expected by retail dealers Thursday or Friday.

Dealers say that the prevalence of a standard price the day after Christmas is unusual. In years before many commodities have dropped from three to five cents following the rush period of buying.

Fresh vegetables, such as cabbage, cucumbers, new beets, carrots, radishes and tomatoes were plentiful on the market today.

LOANS UP TO $500

One of the most comfortable places to live is just inside your income. And that's where you're reasonably sure to stay once your debts are assembled and organized.
Folks who make the rounds of a number of places to pay each month are paying the price of a loan that would pay up their bills, and are missing the satisfaction, reduced payments and the additional spending money that they might otherwise enjoy.
A loan under the new City Loan plan can be paid in payments as low as one-tenth of your monthly income. It means a saving of time and money and worry over the old way of paying, which more than offsets the small cost of this loan service.

SUGGEST HUGHES AND DAWES AS OBSERVERS

Speculation of Men Who May Sit on Reparations Commission

PARIS, Dec. 26—Although some time may elapse before the reparation delegates of the allied powers and Germany formally designate the two American observers who are to sit with the new reparation commission, speculation already was prevalent today as to their identity.

Half a dozen names were mentioned, including those of Charles Gates Dawes, retiring vice president of the United States, and Charles Evans Hughes, former American secretary of state and present American representative on the World Court.

So far neither of these American statesmen has been sounded out as to whether he would serve. It is believed in some quarters here that Mr Hughes may be offered a post in the Hoover cabinet. If this transpires and he should accept, it would preclude the possibility of his serving.

May Have Changed Plans

It is regarded as possible that the Washington decision regarding American participation in the forthcoming conference may have had something to do with Mr. Hoover's change of plans. The president-elect is going direct to Washington from his South American good will tour, giving rise to belief in some quarters here that he wished to confer with President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg upon the personnel of the American observers before they are officially announced. While the two observers will have no official connection with the United States government, they must be acceptable to Washington.

The reparations negotiations, which are to fix the annual amounts Germany must pay, and the period of time during which payments are to be made, will be attended with many difficulties.

Paris Gratified

It may be well toward the end of 1929 before the new arrangement which is to supplant the Dawes plan, is in final form and officially approved.

Practically all the Paris newspapers expressed gratification over the action of President Coolidge in allowing American representation. However it was assumed in advance that there would be such representation owing to the vast sums loaned by American bankers to Germany in the past eight years.

Cork mats substituted for the old bath mat will absorb water and are very pleasant to stand on during the cold days. They will effect a great saving in laundry and are easily cleaned.

A sad actor is sometimes the ham served with antique eggs.

AID POOR

Christmas Baskets Distributed by Forest Lawn Church

Forest Lawn Presbyterian church distributed baskets to the poor of the east end of the city yesterday as the Christmas charity of the church. The Rev. John A. Carriker, pastor of the church and members of the Young People's Christian Endeavor were in charge of distribution.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the Boys' Intermediate Sunday School class will hold a Christmas exchange at the community house. A meeting of the officers and chairmen of committees of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society, will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the church. Plans for a program for next year will be formulated.

The village minister's study is how to make both ends meet.

CHRISTMAS BRINGS IDEAL WEATHER

Christmas Day in Marion was the occasion or some of the best weather experienced here at this time of the year for several years past. A year ago it was 32 degrees above zero in the city and persons who always clamor for cold weather were disgusted, but yesterday the mercury rose to 50 degrees and fell to 28 degrees last night. A year ago the low degree for the day was 18.

The forecast is "increasing cloudiness, Thursday probably showers and somewhat colder."
